I. DEFINITIONS

Education Abroad Program (EAP) – is the administrative unit within University of Alberta International which manages and administers study and work abroad programs for the University of Alberta (U of A). EAP directly supports students in their study, work, research and volunteer abroad endeavours through advising, info sessions, Pre-Departure preparation, workshops, and support to the U of A's partners. EAP also supports faculty administrators in their efforts to provide student mobility opportunities.

Host Institution – refers to the institution abroad where you choose to study

Go Abroad Program Finder – this is a searchable database that includes all education abroad programs (EAPs) offered at the U of A. This database can be accessed on the web at www.goabroad.ualberta.ca

Student Exchange / Study Abroad Program Form - This form is required by all exchange programs where you are undertaking course work at a Partner Institution and where you pay tuition and fees to the U of A and have tuition waived at the Partner Institution. In this case the form will register you in an "EXCH" course. Some exchange programs require that you pay tuition and fees directly to the Partner Institution. In this case you will be registered in an "ABROD" course. These courses serve to ensure you remain registered at the U of A for the duration of study period, assess the appropriate fees (Refer Section IV. Program Costs), ensure you receive income tax receipts for fees paid to U of A, permit the U of A to endorse student loan forms, and allow you to access U of A scholarships and awards among other things. This form will be made available for your use in the "Post-Nomination" step of your exchange program application through Horizons.

Visiting Student – this is the registration designation you will receive as a participant in an exchange program during your exchange period. Please note that during that time, you will be registered as a non-degree-seeking student by the Host Institution. Many exchange programs will not allow students to modify this status if they later consider transferring to the Host Institution to complete their program or degree.

II. APPLICATION PROCESS

Program Eligibility

Our website has a description of all minimum U of A eligibility requirements for participation in an exchange program. Meeting the minimum U of A eligibility requirements does not guarantee acceptance into an exchange program. Some host institutions, for example, have higher GPA requirements. Also, please know that you must have completed at least one year of full time academic study at U of A prior to participating in a program. This administrative requirement may be waived for college transfer students at the discretion of the Exchange Programs Coordinator and faculty approval. Some programs are open to non-U of A students. Those students will be required to have a minimum 60% average in their course work and fulfill the basic application requirements.

Step 1: View the Information on the Go Abroad Website

If you are considering participating in an exchange program, you must first view our exchange program information online at www.goabroad.ualberta.ca.

Step 2: Research

After viewing this session, you will be able to research specific exchange programs using the Go Abroad Program Finder online at www.goabroad.ualberta.ca. Given that a number of exchange programs are competitive, you are encouraged to investigate alternative options by identifying three potential exchange programs as part of your research.

It is your responsibility to understand the course requirements for your degree and to research and select an exchange program with courses that would best meet your academic, professional, and personal goals.

Step 3: Create an Account on the Online Application System

Once you have reviewed the information on the website and conducted research on potential exchange programs, you can create an account in Horizons.

Step 4: Submit Your Initial Online Application

Once you have completed the initial application in Horizons, your Exchange Programs Coordinator will review your initial application. If your Exchange Programs Coordinator approves your initial application you will be granted access to complete your application.

If your initial application is not approved by the Exchange Programs Coordinator you will be contacted by your Exchange Programs Coordinator and informed that you cannot proceed with the application.

Step 5: Submit Your Completed Online Application

Approved applicants can submit an application by the appropriate deadline. Late applications will be reviewed pending available space and only after all those received on time have been reviewed.

Submit one online application listing your top 3 preferences for exchange programs. Incomplete application packages might not be accepted.

III. NOMINATION AND ACCEPTANCE

Application to participate in exchange programs is a two-tier process. Applications are first reviewed by the Exchange Programs Coordinator and then sent to the Host Institution for a final decision on acceptance.

The U of A nomination decision typically falls under one of three categories:

- 1. An application is reviewed and students are nominated to participate:
If successful you will usually be contacted by the Exchange Programs Coordinator within three weeks of the deadline and advised that your nomination to participate in an exchange program has started.
- 2. An application is reviewed and not recommended for nomination:
If you can't be nominated for your first choice exchange destination then you will be contacted to discuss options at the alternative exchange destinations that you have listed in your application. If you can't be nominated because you don't meet one or more eligibility criteria then you will usually be advised within three weeks.
- 3. An application is reviewed and offered a conditional nomination:
You may be offered a conditional nomination in which case the conditions for the nomination will be provided to you either in a letter, an email, or on your online application.

Once your exchange nomination has started you will be required to complete all remaining work for the U of A part of your application by any deadlines communicated. Your Host Institution will also require you to complete their part of your application and more information about it will be provided by your Exchange Programs Coordinator or directly from the Host Institution. If you need to submit hard copies of application documents to your Host Institution (rather than uploading them to your Host Institution's website) you will need to give them to your Exchange Programs Coordinator by any deadline communicated. Your Exchange Programs Coordinator will not be checking your application documents to ensure that they are free of errors or omissions; that is your responsibility so be sure to read and follow all instructions carefully.

Failure to hand in completed documentation to the Exchange Programs Coordinator by the given deadlines may result in the cancellation of your exchange program and forfeiture of the nomination fee.

Once you've uploaded your completed application to your Host Institution's website or after your hard copy application package has been mailed to your Host Institution by your Exchange Programs Coordinator you will need to wait patiently for a reply containing the final admission decision from your Host Institution. It often takes between one and four months for Host Institutions to process and decide on formal admission. While the majority of students nominated by U of A are admitted by the Host Institution, the Host Institution has final authority to decide.

In some instances, a letter of admission may be sent directly to the student from the Host Institution while in other cases the Host Institution will notify the Exchange Programs Coordinator.

While you are encouraged to make tentative plans to participate once U of A starts your nomination, you should not make any plans which cannot be easily changed until formal written acceptance has been received from the Host Institution.

It is your responsibility to ensure visa, transportation, accommodation, health and travel insurance, and banking needs are met prior to your departure.

For students with special needs who may require disability support while participating in an exchange program:

Students with disabilities who have been nominated for an exchange program by U of A and who will require support at the Host Institution must work with U of A's Academic Success Centre to facilitate the arrangements for support. For further details on this policy, please consult the Education Abroad Program's Policy for Students with Disabilities, section XIII of this document.

IV. PROGRAM COSTS

Option 1: Tuition paid to U of A

By registering in an "EXCH" course, Undergraduate students are required to pay tuition and fees, corresponding to fifteen credits per term, to U of A. Graduate students can register in a reduced course load for the study abroad period and receive a reduced fee assessment. If, however, they undertake additional courses to their original study plan and fee assessment they will be billed for the additional course(s). Graduate students are also eligible to receive a refund if they undertake less course work on the exchange than originally paid for and proposed.

Registration in the "EXCH" course will drop registration in all other courses. It is possible, under certain conditions, for you to also register in other U of A courses in addition to the "EXCH" course while on the exchange. In this situation, you would be required to pay the additional tuition fees associated with any courses beyond the "EXCH" course. Other exceptions include:

- students in the Faculties of Law and Faculties of Dentistry, Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, and Medicine and Oral Health Sciences who may be assessed additional program costs
- students on a Study Permit (international students) who will be required to pay regular fees plus the differential fee
- students in certain faculties have voted to be assessed an additional Faculty Student Fund fee in accordance with the Students' Union bylaws. Fees range from $3-$50 per term. Engineering, Campus Saint-Jean, and Law are examples of some faculties which assess this fee.

Option 2: Tuition paid to the host institution

In an "ABROD" course, you will be required to pay Non-Instructional Fees and Faculty Student Funds. details at <https://www.ualberta.ca/registrar/costs-tuition-fees/noninstructional-fees.html>

In addition, you will be provided with a list of the tuition, program, and administrative fees you will need to pay directly to the Host Institution by the Host Institution.

Once payment of tuition and fees has been made, you will have access to Host Institution facilities as per normally registered students. Some institutions may levy additional fees for services not covered under the exchange agreement.

Additional Costs

You must take full responsibility for all financial matters. Neither U of A nor the Host Institution is responsible for providing financial support unless explicitly communicated in writing. Additional costs include the $250 nomination fee paid to the Education Abroad Program at the time of nomination. Other costs to consider are ancillary health care and travel insurance, cost of living, as well as costs associated with travel to and from the host destination.

Funding & Financial Assistance

U of A awards and scholarships can be used to participate in most exchange programs. The Exchange Programs Coordinator can advise you of any available funding. Any arrangement for financial support from the Host Institution is your responsibility. Be sure to obtain written assurance of any financial support before traveling.

You can start an application for a student loan for an exchange program in advance of either nomination or formal acceptance. For most exchange programs, U of A remains the designated institution. If applying for a student loan, please contact the Student Service Centre for more information.

A number of exchange programs also include a limited number of scholarships. Information is available online on the respective program finder pages. You should ask the Exchange Programs Coordinator if the exchange programs that interest you include any special scholarships or bursaries. Visit this website for funding opportunities: <https://www.ualberta.ca/international/go-abroad/get-funding>

V. PRE-DEPARTURE PREPARATION

All students participating in formal exchange programs sponsored by the Education Abroad Program are required to complete the Education Abroad Online Pre-Departure course and in person orientation. The Online Pre-Departure course modules address administrative procedures, as well as a wide variety of important topics such as healthcare issues, travel tips, security issues, cultural adjustment, budgets, insurance, and money.

The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to withdraw a student's nomination for participation in any exchange program where a student does not complete the Education Abroad Online and In Person Pre-Departure Orientations.

VI. HEALTH INSURANCE, SAFETY & SECURITY

Health and Travel Insurance while Abroad

When traveling abroad, you should be aware of four general types of insurance coverage that you can obtain: medical insurance, travel insurance, trip cancellation insurance, and personal effects insurance. It is MANDATORY for students participating in education abroad programs to be covered by a required level of HEALTH, TRAVEL and TRIP CANCELLATION insurance. Please click here for detailed information on the health and travel insurance requirements by the University's Insurance and Risk Assessment Office. Insurance regarding personal effects is not mandatory. Insurance coverage must be acknowledged on the Education Abroad Waiver and plan details must be included in the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry.

U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry

When participating in a program through the Education Abroad Program it is mandatory to register on the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry (<https://www.ualberta.ca/why-ualberta/international/go-abroad/ugo-international-sos>), an electronic registry that records all off-campus international travel. Students must also provide insurance and emergency contact information when signing up for U-GO. The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to terminate a student's program abroad should they fail to register on the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry prior to their program. U-GO registration must be completed at least three weeks prior to the program start date.

Education Abroad Waiver

Students must acknowledge all risks associated with their program abroad and sign the Education Abroad Waiver prior to their program abroad, as well as have a witness sign the form. All exchange program students are asked to indicate names of people to whom the Program Contact can release information. The information they release is pertinent to the exchange program and contained in their file. All exchange program students are also asked to provide the names and contact information of people the Education Abroad Program can contact in the event of an emergency. The waiver is housed within the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry. The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to terminate a student's program abroad should they fail to provide the Education Abroad Waiver prior to their program. The Education Abroad Waiver must be completed at least three weeks prior to the program start date.

Safety & Security

The current world reality is that travelling, living, and studying abroad places students at increased risk related to their safety and security beyond what they might experience if they do not travel abroad. By choosing to participate in an exchange program, students recognize that there are associated increased levels of risk for health, safety and security. In order to help students prepare for their sojourn abroad, students must be familiar with the information on the Global Affairs Canada website (travel.gc.ca) and International SOS (internationalsos.com). Preparation is the key to successful travel. By doing your homework before you leave, you minimize the chances of something going wrong once abroad. All students must complete a Risk Assessment and Management Plan prior to going abroad ensuring they are aware of the risks of travelling and have it approved by the Risk Management Coordinator. The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to terminate a student's program abroad should they fail to provide an acceptable Risk Assessment and Management Plan prior to their program. The Risk Assessment and Management Plan must be submitted at least three weeks prior to the program start date.

Global Affairs Canada Information & Assistance for Canadians Abroad (travel.gc.ca):

You will find a broad range of information to help you prepare for a safe and enjoyable journey. Global Affairs Canada not only offers consular services to Canadians around the world but also provides them with official travel information and advice, on behalf of the Government of Canada, to promote their safety and security overseas. The information must be credible and the advice timely to enable Canadians to be well prepared before departure, to minimize risks, and to make informed judgments, and responsible decisions while abroad

International SOS

U of A students have access to International SOS travel risk information and advisories, this information can be accessed using the information provided in this link.

Travel Advice & Advisories

Global Affairs Canada Travel Advice and Advisories are also available at travel.gc.ca and offer information on safety and security, local laws and customs, entry requirements, health conditions and other important travel issues.

U of A travel policy dictates that students must receive Faculty Dean approval for travel to any destination with a level 3 (avoid non-essential travel) or level 4 (avoid all travel) Advisory from Global Affairs Canada or if students have not received a COVID-19 vaccine series. Students who have received a COVID-19 vaccine series and travelling to a destination with a level 1 (exercise normal security precautions) or level 2 (exercise a high degree of caution) advisory level will require program coordinator approval pending completion of the pre-departure preparations and risk management steps.

Travel Advisories provide the Government of Canada's official travel advice, recommending that Canadians postpone or avoid travel to a country, or specific region(s) of a country, when credible information suggests that it is not safe to travel. Travel Advisories constitute an integral part of the travel Advices in which they appear. Students must check the Travel Advice and Advisories when conducting research and choosing their exchange destination.

The decision to travel is the sole responsibility of the traveler. The traveler is also responsible for his or her own personal safety. The purpose of travel advice is to provide Canadians with up-to-date information to enable them to make well-informed decisions. For additional information, please see the FAQs on the Travel and Tourism page. (travel.gc.ca).

VII. PARTICIPATING IN AN EXCHANGE PROGRAM

U of A can only provide exchange program opportunities as a result of special agreements and relationships with a Host Institution. You need to be aware that you may often be required to work with two very different university administrative and academic systems – with different perspectives and styles of management within different cultural contexts. For you, as for all students, this will be one of your greatest challenges and learning opportunities. By agreeing to participate in an exchange program, you agree to not engage in behaviour viewed as inappropriate or unacceptable or that contravenes the ‘Ambassador Role’ you assume by applying to participate in a U of A exchange program. Serious infractions can constitute grounds for termination of a student’s program. Students participating in exchange programs must assume responsibility for this special role. While on an exchange program, students must obey the rules and regulations of the Host Institution.

In addition to being bound by the rules and regulations of the Host Institution and the laws of the host country, you are expected to demonstrate sensitivity to the local cultural and societal norms. Students are considered representatives of U of A, and as such you are expected to behave in a manner that reflects positively on the University. While U of A will work closely with all students to ensure that they are treated fairly while at the Host Institution, you need to be aware that the issue of ‘fair treatment’ is often defined culturally in different and complex manners. At U of A, as in most North American universities, student behavioural expectations are often explicitly defined in ‘codes of student behaviour’. This is often not the case in many foreign universities. In many instances, broad societal and cultural norms are used to define behavioural expectations for students. U of A students studying abroad are provided general information and orientation to this issue as part of the Pre-departure Sessions, and through materials and handouts. Students are also expected to devote time on their own to learning about cultural norms and behavioural expectations associated with the country to which they are going, prior to their departure. If a Host Institution notifies U of A that it deems a U of A exchange student’s behaviour is inappropriate, including academic performance, this will be communicated to the student. A major infraction, as defined by the Host Institution, or repeated incidents of inappropriate behaviour, can result in the Host Institution terminating a student’s exchange program. If their exchange program has been terminated by the Host Institution, there will be no reimbursement of any fees and students will be responsible for any additional expenses associated with the termination of their exchange programs.

If at any point you have a concern with any aspect of your exchange program, you are advised to first share this concern with your Exchange Programs Coordinator. If you feel your concern has not been addressed you should then ask your Exchange Programs Coordinator to speak with their supervisor to discuss your concern. If this is not possible or if you prefer to speak with another person about your concern, you are advised to contact the Student Ombudservice, University Student Services.

VIII. COMING HOME

Undergraduate and graduate students are not required to submit an application for re-admission to resume studies at U of A as long as re-registration takes place within six months of the end of the student exchange period.

Exchange programs are not generally designed to allow you to complete a degree at another institution. You are expected to return to U of A upon completion of the program. Extension beyond the approved program period requires written consent of the designated officials of each institution.

Exchange Returned Student Reports

Upon returning to U of A, you are encouraged to complete a Study Abroad Returned Student Report. The information that you provide in the Returned Student Report about your exchange experience is greatly appreciated and will be shared with other students who are interested in studying abroad. By providing feedback, you can assist others as they prepare for their own adventure abroad. It also allows you to express your opinion about different elements of your experience abroad. Any section of the report that contains personal contact information from you is confidential and only used for tracking purposes. You can access the template to fill out for the report from your online U of A application.

IX. ACADEMIC CREDIT TRANSFER

Once your nomination has started, you should consult with an advisor in your department, and take a proposed plan of study to your home faculty along with photocopies of available course descriptions, course hours, and institutional information. This information will help your faculty decide how credit will transfer for completed course work while on the exchange program. You should understand that there is an element of academic risk involved in studying abroad. Transfer credit cannot be entirely guaranteed. It is important to understand that courses approved for transfer credit by your home faculty at U of A only indicate your proposed course of study at the Host Institution. U of A faculty approval, however, does not guarantee access to the courses at the Host Institution – only the Host Institution can guarantee registration in their courses. Final registration in courses may only be guaranteed once you arrive on campus and proceed through the Host Institution's regular on-site registration process (which may involve getting special permission from departments and professors).

While many exchange program institutions offer access to courses in English this may not be the case for all institutions. If you are considering participating in an exchange program that offers courses in another language you must meet the language proficiency requirements of the Host Institution in order to undertake course work other than language upgrading. Where possible, U of A will provide a pre-departure assessment of your foreign language proficiency using placement tools and recommendations from the Host Institution. The Host Institution is solely responsible for determining your foreign language proficiency. If, upon arrival it is determined by the Host Institution that you do not have the language skills necessary you may not be able to take normal academic courses in the foreign language.

Also, you may not have access to some courses once you arrive at the Host Institution and as a result you may not receive full transfer credit for all work done abroad. You should plan on having a selection of both first choice and alternative courses to register in at the Host Institution. If changes in circumstance require altering the academic program or plans originally approved by your home U of A faculty, then it is your responsibility to contact your home U of A faculty directly as soon as possible. The ultimate authority for a U of A program rests with your home faculty. You should ensure that any concerns regarding your participation in an exchange program are satisfied before you leave. If you feel you must receive credit for a specific and limited number of courses while on the exchange program, you should recognize the risks and carefully consider whether or not to participate.

Transfer credit is dependent on courses available at the Host Institution and faculty approval of the courses you take. It is your responsibility to ensure you are aware of and understand your home faculty's policies on credit transfer. It is also your responsibility to ensure an official transcript is forwarded to U of A as soon as the results are available. No credit will be given until transcripts are received. Transcripts are required whether or not course work is completed. Transcripts from the Host Institution are normally sent directly to the U of A Exchange Programs Coordinator. The Exchange Programs Coordinator will forward original transcripts to the student's Home Faculty. Participants should bring back all course materials including course outlines, texts, tests, written materials, etc. for consideration in awarding transfer credit. Credit transfer decisions can take up to several months to be finalized.

Where a course has been approved for credit transfer to U of A from the Host Institution the course will appear on your U of A transcript as transfer credit with the granted course weight. No grade or assessment for the course will appear on your U of A transcript. The U of A transcript will note you participated in a formal U of A Study Abroad Program and the name of the Host Institution.

In order for courses to be considered for credit transfer you must:

1. receive permission in advance from your home faculty
2. be in good standing in your ongoing degree program
3. not have exceeded the maximum amount of transfer credit allowed by your faculty

In some instances your Home Faculty may need to make a 'grade conversion' for one or more of the courses you undertook while on the exchange. The mark you received for a course at the Host Institution is converted into U of A's 4-point scale. This may be required if you are in an honours program, if you are eligible to graduate with distinction, if you are applying for some U of A Awards, or if you leave while in one faculty and intend to change to another faculty upon your return. You should consult your Faculty Programs Office if there is a chance you may fall under one of these categories. The intent of the grade conversion is to compare your performance in the exchange to a level of comparable academic performance at U of A. Most students do not require grade conversions.

Most faculties normally award credit for approved courses in which a grade of "C-" or its equivalent, is achieved, but final approval is up to the discretion of the home faculty. U of A policy for credit transfer does not permit credit transfer of courses completed at another institution and in which "D" or less has been obtained. Courses with a grade of "D" will not be credited towards a U of A degree. Credit for such courses will be considered on a pass-fail basis only and will not be included in any grade point average calculation. Consult the section of the U of A calendar for your home faculty to find out if your faculty has any other requirements.

X. PROGRAM WITHDRAWAL OR TERMINATION

U of A and the Host Institution reserve the right to revoke your nomination and cancel your exchange program at any time if:

- you do not adhere to program procedures
- you do not complete or submit required documents by deadlines
- you do not follow the student code of conduct
- you contravene U of A or Host Institution's rules and regulations
- you do not make required payments
- you do not complete the Education Abroad Online and In person Pre-Departure Orientation
- you do not submit an approved Risk Assessment and Management Plan, register in the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry, submit a signed Education Abroad Waiver.
- there has been a significant negative change in your situation in an area(s) of relevance to the program (e.g. a significant drop in academic performance after nomination, you engage in activities that place you or the personal safety of others at risk, you engage in activities or behaviours that compromise the ability of the Program Administrators at either the Home or Host Institution to ensure the success of your exchange program in their opinion)
- you demonstrate behaviour, prior to commencing or during your exchange, that damages the special relationship between U of A and the Host Institution in the opinion of both U of A and Host Institution Exchange Programs Coordinators.

If you choose to withdraw from an exchange program or if your program is terminated for any of the reasons listed above, the time at which you withdraw, or have your program terminated, will affect whether you are still eligible to register for courses at U of A.

Program Cancellation or Modification Due to Issues of Safety and Security

U of A, through a variety of sources including the Global Affairs Canada website (travel.gc.ca), undertakes a constant monitoring and evaluation of the destinations where it runs approved student programs internationally. This assessment /monitoring seeks to identify any risks associated with the location to determine if potential risks are deemed sufficient to cancel or modify programs planned or operating in a country or region. The university reserves the right to cancel or modify its programs abroad where it deems unmanageable risk to students exists. At a minimum, U of A observes the Travel Restriction placed on countries and regions as outlined in Travel Advisories for the purpose of determining where programs are allowed to operate for undergraduate study. U of A uses additional sources of information in determining where unmanageable risks exist and reserves the right, based upon its assessment of unwarranted and unmanageable risk, to cancel or modify exchange programs at any time.

Students agree to follow recommended precautions and advice, provided by U of A and accept that when deemed appropriate U of A may need to cancel or terminate exchange programs abroad due to health and safety concerns.

U of A will cancel all exchange programs in a country and require students to leave the country where the Global Affairs Canada Travel Advisory for that country is listed as a level 3 (avoid non-essential travel) or level 4 (avoid all travel) . U of A may cancel an exchange program prior to its commencement or at any time during its operation if: (1) such a Travel Advisory is issued by Global Affairs Canada; or (2) if U of A deems the situation in a country has changed so as to possess certain risks to the safety and security of students.

XI. REFUND POLICY

Nomination Fee: Each applicant for an exchange program is required to pay the $250 nomination fee once the nomination process is started.

The $250 nomination fee for all exchange programs is ONLY refunded if:

- An applicant meets the EAP criteria, EAP nominates the student for a program, but the host organization/institution does not offer a place to the applicant.
- EAP is unsuccessful in offering a placement for a student.
- In exceptional extenuating circumstances (documented illness, etc).

The $250 nomination fee is NOT refunded in the following situations;

- if an applicant misses deadlines during the application process and subsequently has his/her application cancelled by the U of A and/or by the host institution / organization;
- if there are changes to the applicant's academic standing after they are nominated by the Education Abroad Program and those changes result in the host organization/institution not offering a placement/position to the applicant or at the request of the applicant's U of A home faculty;
- if the applicant is offered a placement/position at a host institution/organization and subsequently does not accept the placement/position;

If U of A decides to cancel an exchange program for health and safety reasons prior to a program's commencement a refund of applicable tuition and program fees paid to U of A for the program will be considered. Administration and nomination fees paid to U of A may not be refunded.

If U of A decides to cancel an exchange program for health and safety reasons after it has started any refund of tuition and fees will depend upon several factors including: (1) how much of the exchange program has been completed; (2) the refund policy of the host institution which is providing the exchange program; and (3) refund limitations due to non-recoverable amounts and/or contractual obligations for the payment of fees placed upon either the student or U of A.

If a student participating in a U of A exchange program chooses to withdraw from a program that has not been cancelled for any reason, U of A will review all requests from students to terminate an exchange program early for legitimate reasons and any possibility of a refund.

Students choosing to participate in an exchange program must accept as a condition of participation that should a decision be made to cancel or end an exchange program due to concerns over the safety and security of students, exchange program participants may encounter additional and unexpected financial and academic repercussions. U of A will work closely with such students to mitigate any possible negative implications of such a decision to the best of its ability. Students should, as a general rule, ensure among other things that they consider carefully the purchase of travel and program interruption insurance and purchasing airline tickets that can have the return date modified with limited or no penalty. U of A can accept no responsibility for refunds on any money paid to third parties as part of the exchange program.

If you choose to withdraw from an exchange program, the time at which you withdraw, or have your program terminated, will affect whether you are still eligible to register for courses at U of A and/or receive any refunds. In order to withdraw or have a program terminated without financial penalty (forfeiting the tuition fees paid), you must withdraw in accordance with formal withdrawal procedures and by the appropriate deadlines of the Host Institution. If you do not complete your exchange program and fail to withdraw by formal deadlines, you are not eligible for a tuition fee refund. In addition, the academic record from the Host Institution will reflect incomplete academic work.

XII. POINTS TO CONSIDER

Passport and Immigration Documents

You will not be able to proceed with immigration matters (i.e. student visas) until official acceptance from the Host Institution is received. At that point, communication with the nearest consular representative can begin (addresses are available on-line). The immigration process varies according to the country. It is your responsibility to ensure that you apply for, and receive, all necessary documents and visas prior to the exchange.

Citizenship and Nationality Issues

Canadians who have more than one nationality through birth, descent, marriage, or naturalization are advised that while in the country of their nationality they may be subject to all its laws and obligations, particularly military service. Please note that your 'nationality' refers to your status of belonging to a particular nation, whether by birth (your birth, your parents' birth, or possibly even grandparents in some cases) or naturalization, and is different than that of your 'citizenship' where citizenship is the status, rights, and duties of a citizen, especially of a particular country. For example, if a Canadian-born student who has Greek parents holding Canadian citizenship went to Greece to learn the language/culture, etc. of the "mother country" he/she could find him or herself conscripted into the Greek army with no recourse. Why? According to Greek law, if your parents are Greek, then you are Greek, even if YOU don't officially have Greek citizenship or a Greek passport. In the eyes of the Greek government, you are a Greek national. If you are going to study abroad in a country where you know you have nationality (or may have nationality by default due to your parents and/or grandparents), please ensure you consult with the office that handles immigration matters in that country to see what laws and local customs you may be subject to. We recommend that all Canadian citizens holding dual citizenship re-enter Canada with their Canadian passport.

Housing

The U of A Exchange Programs Coordinator can provide general information on accommodation at the Host Institution. Once formal acceptance has been received or where advised by the Exchange Programs Coordinator, you are responsible for communicating directly with the Host Institution on housing and food matters. Host Institutions which do not provide housing for students often provide assistance to you in locating housing. Once you submit your housing request to the Host Institution, it is your responsibility to provide any additional information or required deposits to ensure a room is reserved.

Travel Arrangements

Travel costs and arrangements should be explored when first considering an exchange program. You may want to determine your travel plans shortly after you apply for an exchange program and book your flights as far in advance as possible. However, you should not pay for your ticket until formal acceptance has been received.

Student Loans

You may have access to student loans while participating in an exchange program. Questions regarding student loans can be addressed to the Student Service Centre.

Advance Registration from Abroad

Students may use the Beartracks on-line registration system to register in courses for the term following completion of their exchange program. You should discuss your return to U of A and to your faculty with a faculty program advisor prior to departure.

Income Tax

If you are participating in an exchange program, you will obtain regular income tax documentation for tuition and fees from U of A for all tuition and fees you paid to U of A. If you are participating in an exchange program where you pay your tuition to your Host Institution, you should obtain your tuition and fees receipts directly from them. Exchange programs less than 13 weeks in duration where tuition and fees are paid to the host institution are ineligible to receive tax credit.

Exchange Address

You are required to update your contact information on the U-Go Off-Campus Travel Registry once you have arrived at your host destination in case there is a need to communicate any relevant information or details to you while you are on your exchange program.

Privacy

You authorize the Education Abroad Program to release any of your program-related information (including name and contact information) to any individual involved with the exchange program both at the U of A and at the host institution/organization.

Final Thoughts

While there are many people willing to assist you, you are ultimately responsible for your decisions concerning your exchange program. Proper steps should be followed and you should ensure your concerns are satisfied before leaving on an exchange program.

XIII. POLICY FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES AND SPECIAL NEEDS

The Education Abroad Program (EAP) encourages all students to consider incorporating a study abroad experience into their academic program. While students with disabilities may need to consider some special issues that arise as a consequence of studying and living in another country beyond those they may normally deal with here in Canada – the value of undertaking the extra work necessary to participate in an international experience can be well worth the time and energy. This policy has been prepared to provide information, encouragement, and guidance to students with disabilities interested in participating in a U of A exchange program.

A. Pre-selection steps

1. When considering participation in an international exchange, the first step is to investigate your options and to get some general information surrounding how to choose a program. In this regard, you must first review the Education Abroad Program's Information on our web pages at www.goabroad.ualberta.ca.
2. Now you are ready to identify the exchange program(s) that are of most interest to you and best meet your needs. While students with disabilities are encouraged to examine all our exchange possibilities for which they have interest, it is important to recognize at this point that not all of our partner universities abroad will be able to offer reasonable accommodations for students with some types of disabilities.

Reasonable accommodations are adjustments made to an academic or work environment that allow an individual with a disability to function successfully in the environment. Examples include ramps and lifts for persons with mobility disabilities and sign interpreters for hearing impaired individuals. Students must recognize that reasonable accommodations are not required to be provided where they would result in undue hardship. For a service provider or employer, undue hardship may result from an accommodation request which jeopardizes the health, safety, and financial viability of the provider. An example is the inability to provide a full-time personal aide for someone due to financial restrictions.

Some students may not be aware that they may need reasonable accommodations at the exchange site, since they may not have needed to access the Academic Success Centre at U of A. We ask you to consider that, while you may not require accommodations at U of A, accommodations may be needed at the exchange site due to cultural and environmental differences. For example, Denmark is considered forward thinking in making people with disabilities an integral part of society, though at the same time they possess laws that prohibit the altering of buildings in order to preserve their heritage. A person with mobility challenges may find the environment difficult to access compared to what they have become accustomed to at U of A.

It is also important to realize that foreign government and institutional laws and cultures related to providing services to students with disabilities differ markedly between countries and this may be a part of your considerations in selecting a suitable venue. There are a host of other differences you may not be aware of including the fact that American Sign Language will not be viable as a means of communication in a number of other English speaking countries and keyboarding is different in different countries – something to know if you use tts, have a sight disability, and are a touch typist. There are numerous other differences.

The delivery of disability services in other countries can be considerably different than here in Canada and at U of A. There are resources and experts to assist you in identifying programs that can meet your interests and needs. The disability advisors at U of A's Academic Success Centre may have some insight into how to overcome barriers that you may have not anticipated because of your experience at U of A. There are also some resources we recommend that all students with disabilities consult before proceeding in attempting to identify suitable programs. They include "Rights and Responsibilities: A Guide to National and International Disability Related Laws for International Exchange Organizations and Participants", "A Practice of Yes: Working with Overseas Partners to Include Students with Disabilities", and "Building Bridges: A Manual on Including People with Disabilities in International Exchange Programs". All of these publications are online at: www.miusa.org/.

3. Once you have completed the steps above and have done some investigation to identify potential programs you can then start an online application. Some exchange programs are open to all students while others may only be open to students in certain faculties. Should you require special accommodations in order to meet with the Exchange Programs Coordinator and discuss your exchange possibilities, please contact the Education Abroad Office in order that we may confirm the arrangements required before your meeting.

While a student's disability will form no part of the selection process in determining eligibility to participate in an exchange program, the Exchange Programs Coordinator may suggest the most viable programs to meet your interests and needs. Students are also encouraged to discuss their interest in participating in an exchange program with staff in the Academic Success Centre. The Academic Success Centre will be especially helpful in discussions on everything from funding requirements and guidelines for going abroad to differences in technology and service delivery in other jurisdictions. The secret for having a successful exchange experience is the same for all students – preparation, preparation, and preparation! While it is not mandatory prior to being selected to participate in a exchange program for students with disabilities to consult the Academic Success Centre, it is strongly advised.

B. Post-selection steps

1. Once you have received a formal nomination from the Exchange Programs Coordinator at U of A notifying you that you have been selected to participate in an exchange program, you must consider whether you will need special accommodation from the Host Institution. For students with disabilities where there is an obvious or potential need for some form of accommodation to be made by the Host Institution, you are then required to meet with both the Academic Success Centre and exchange advisor to determine what, if any, accommodations and or special supports may need to be articulated and confirmed with the Host Institution. In consultation with the student, Academic Success Centre staff will produce a report that identifies the disability(ies) and recommends the supports required to fulfill academic responsibilities.

Due to the importance of ensuring that appropriate accommodations are in place at the Host Institution, working with the Academic Success Centre is mandatory for all students with disabilities who have been nominated to participate in an exchange program and who will require accommodation from the Host Institution. The Academic Success Centre is designated by the University's General Faculties Council Policy as the body which is primarily responsible for providing disability services for staff and students at U of A.

2. As a general practice, an office similar to Accessibility Resources at your Host Institution will seek information on your disability and requirements for accommodation so that it can assess the Host Institution's ability to provide required accommodations. Additionally, Accessibility Resources and the disability office at the Host Institution may need, on your behalf, to complete various forms and paperwork related to things such as applying for funding to cover the cost of the services and products recommended etc. The Accessibility Resources staff will help guide you through the process of applying for funding, which, in some cases, requires additional appointments off campus with government representatives. Funding is available for a great majority of support services and equipment provided by the Accessibility Resources office, and to cover other specific disability-related costs. You will also want to discuss with Accessibility Resources if you can use any funding that you may already receive for studying at U of A with you when you go abroad. If you cannot take your funding with you, you will need to start planning your new budget.
3. Reasonable accommodations will be recommended by Accessibility Resources in consultation with the student, the Education Abroad Program office, and the exchange site. Accommodations which would require a fundamental alteration of the program, would present an undue hardship, or are not seen as acceptable by the Host Institution may not be provided. Canadian and Alberta legislation related to issues such as duty to accommodate are not binding upon foreign universities and decisions on accommodations are therefore made on a case-by-case, country-by-country, and institution-by-institution basis.

If the exchange site is reluctant to provide the requested accommodations, then another exchange site will have to be selected. Students need to recognize that even though all of our exchanges are open to you, the exchange institution may find accommodating a student with a disability an undue hardship. Thus it is important for the student to have done some research into an institution's level of accessibility and for the student to have an alternative choice for exchange as noted earlier in this document. We recommend that you have 1 or 2 more desired choices as alternatives in case your first choice cannot support the needed accommodations.

4. Neither U of A nor the exchange site are obliged to provide accommodations to students who do not provide the required medical certification or who do not make timely requests for accommodations. Should a student only disclose disability accommodation needs once abroad, then Accessibility Resources, the Education Abroad Program office and the exchange site will determine if the student still qualifies to participate and what accommodations, if any, can be provided. It is therefore required that students disclose information about their disability-related needs upon being nominated for a program and well in advance of their planned departure to ensure that any necessary accommodation requests can be considered. If you wait until the last minute to request accommodations then it may not be possible to make appropriate arrangements.
5. Students are not obligated to disclose any information pertaining to their disability as part of the application process. If a student brings disability-related personal property to the Host Institution then the student is responsible for ensuring adequate personal effects insurance. Neither U of A nor the Host Institution can be held accountable for the safety and security of the student's own disability-related personal property.

XIV. U of A ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS POLICY

The University has approved an Electronic Communications Policy for Students and Applicants. See full policy: https://calendar.ualberta.ca/content.php?catoid=33&navoid=9813#Electronic Communication Policy for Students and Applicants

When appropriate, the University will send you important information through e-mail. As a result, you will receive this information in a timely way and can follow up promptly.

Key Points Regarding Electronic Communications

Check your ualberta.ca e-mail account at least once a day.

Please login to the Education Abroad Online Pre-Departure course at least once a week

- All students and applicants are assigned a U of A Campus Computing ID (CCID) with e-mail privileges. The 'CCID@ualberta.ca' e-mail address originally assigned by the University is the e-mail address to which communications will be sent.
- See the Information Services and Technology (IST) website for detailed information on CCIDs, conditions of use, and related privileges: <https://ist.ualberta.ca/>
- You must advise IST immediately of any problems encountered with University e-mail accounts by contacting the Help Desk through email at ist@ualberta.ca , through live chat at <https://uofaprod.service-now.com/ess/livechat.do> or by calling 780-492-9400
- We recommend that you do not forward your University directed e-mail to other non-University e-mail addresses such as those provided by Gmail, Hotmail, Yahoo, Shaw, Telus, etc. as you could miss important communications that may affect your University career

Failure to receive or read University communications sent to the University e-mail address in a timely manner does not absolve students and applicants from knowing, responding to, or complying with the content of that communication.

This document is intended to provide students who are interested in participating in a University of Alberta Summer Abroad Program with information about procedures and conditions of participation. Students applying to participate in a University of Alberta Summer Abroad Program are required to read this document before submitting an application and will be required to indicate they have read and agreed to the conditions noted herein.

I. DEFINITIONS

Education Abroad Program (EAP) – is the administrative unit within University of Alberta International which manages and administers study and work abroad programs for University of Alberta (U of A). EAP directly supports students in their study, work and volunteer abroad endeavours through info sessions, Pre-Departure preparation, advising and support to the University of Alberta's partners. EAP also supports faculty administrators in their efforts to provide student mobility opportunities.

There are two types of short term study abroad program options (hereafter referred to as SAP):

I. U of A Courses taught abroad

U of A courses abroad are courses organized specifically by U of A (sometimes in cooperation with a partner institution) to be offered in various locations around the world. These courses are typically taught by U of A professors and run from several weeks to an entire term. While the nature of these programs, their duration, venue and cost vary considerably, a common element is that they are transcribed as U of A courses taught abroad. Some programs, which operate cooperatively with other institutions, may have the courses transcribed at the cooperating institution with pre-approved credit transfer for a specific U of A course. Courses often include a special tuition and fee charge as well as a program fee.

II. Courses taught at partner institutions

The remainder of this document deals with SAPs where students register in courses offered directly by partner institutions. Some programs require that students pay tuition and fees directly to U of A, others require students to pay tuition and fees to the Host/Partner Institution.

Host/Partner Institution – refers to the partner institution abroad or in Canada where you choose to study

Go Abroad Program Finder – this is a searchable database that includes all SAPs offered at the U of A. This database can be accessed on the web at www.goabroad.ualberta.ca

Transfer Credit Form - In order to participate in SAPs and to receive transfer credit towards your degree you must obtain permission from your home Faculty at U of A. This form ensures that you have approval from your faculty and indicates if you are eligible for credit transfer. NOTE: this is generally not required if taking U of A courses abroad.

Student Exchange / Study Abroad Program Form - This form is required by all SAP's where you are undertaking course work at a Partner Institution and where you pay tuition and fees to U of A and have these fees waived at the Partner Institution. In this case the form will register you in an "EXCH" course. Some SAPs require that you pay tuition and fees directly to the Partner Institution. In this case you will be registered in an "ABROD" course. These courses serve to ensure you remain registered at the U of A for the duration of study period, assess the appropriate fees (Refer Section IV. Program Costs), ensure you receive income tax receipts for fees paid to the U of A, permit the U of A to endorse student loan forms, and allow you to access U of A scholarships and awards among other things. These forms will be explained and provided as required by the Program Contact.

II. APPLICATION PROCESS

Program Eligibility

Please visit our website for all minimum U of A eligibility requirements for participation in a SAP. Meeting the minimum U of A eligibility requirements does not guarantee acceptance into a program. Some host institutions, for example, have higher GPA requirements. These will be posted on the respective Program Finder page. Also, please know that you must have completed at least 24 units of course weight at U of A prior to participating in a program. This administrative requirement may be waived for college transfer students at the discretion of the Program Contact and faculty approval. Some programs are open to non-U of A students. Those students will be required to fulfill the basic application requirements, including minimum GPA requirements for the specific program..

Step 1: View the Information on the Go Abroad Website

If you are considering participating in a SAP, you must first view our study abroad information online at www.goabroad.ualberta.ca.

Step 2: Research

After viewing this session, you will be able to research specific programs using the Go Abroad Program Finder online www.goabroad.ualberta.ca. Given that a number of SAPs are competitive, you are encouraged to investigate alternative options by identifying three potential SAPs as part of your research. There is no additional cost to apply for more than one program and to list alternative SAP options. Do not submit more than one application if your intention is to only attend one more.

It is your responsibility to understand the course requirements for your degree and to research and select a SAP with courses that would best meet your academic, professional, and personal goals.

Step 3: Create an Account on Horizons, the Online Application System

Once you have reviewed the information on the website and conducted research on potential SAPs, you can create an account on Horizons the online application system at <https://ualberta-horizons.symplicity.com/>

Step 4: Submit Your Initial Online Application

Once you have completed the initial application which includes Step 1 Pre-Trip Survey and uploaded a PDF copy of your unofficial post-secondary transcripts, your program contact will review your initial application. If your program contact approves your initial application you will be granted access to complete your application and the Pre-Nomination step.

If your initial application is not approved by the program contact you will be contacted by EAP and informed that you cannot proceed with the application.

Step 5: Submit Your Completed Online Application

Approved applicants can submit an application by the appropriate deadline. Deadlines are noted in the Go Abroad Program Finder (and online for EAP options).

Late applications will be reviewed pending available space and only after all those received on time have been reviewed.

Submit one online application listing your preferences of study abroad programs. Incomplete application packages will not be accepted.

We encourage students applying for study abroad programs to list at least one alternative choice that they are prepared to take if they are not placed in their first choice. By doing this, they will broaden their opportunities for being nominated to a program.

III. NOMINATION AND ACCEPTANCE

If successful, you will be contacted by the Short Term Study Abroad Coordinator and advised that you have been nominated to participate in a Short Term Program after the application deadline.. You will be offered a nomination to one of your stated program choices with a nomination package. If you choose to accept, you must confirm your acceptance of the nomination by the deadline indicated by the Program Contact on the nomination checklist. Failure to do so will result in withdrawal of the nomination and forfeiture of the nomination fee.

If you are not offered a nomination you will be advised within two weeks of the application deadline.

Once nominated for a Short Term SAP you are required to accept or reject the nomination. If you choose to accept, you must confirm your acceptance of the nomination in Horizons and paying the nomination fee by the deadline indicated on the nomination checklist

If you accept the nomination you will be required to complete all Post-Nominations steps as part of your application by any deadlines communicated.

You must complete all application materials from the Host Institution and will be responsible for including all materials requested by the Host Institution. Your Program Contact will not be checking for accuracy, so be sure to ask if you have any questions. If you need to submit hard copies of application documents to your Host Institution (rather than uploading them to your Host Institution's website) you will need to give them to your Program Contact by any deadline communicated. Your Program Contact will not be checking your application documents to ensure that they are free of errors or omissions; that is your responsibility so be sure to read and follow all instructions carefully. Please upload a copy of your completed application in Horizons under the respective Post-Nomination step.

Failure to hand in completed documentation to the Program Contact by the given deadlines may result in withdrawal of the nomination and forfeiture of the nomination fee.

Once you've uploaded your completed application package to your Host Institution's website or after your hard copy application package has been mailed to your Host Institution by your Program Contact you will need to wait patiently for a reply containing the final admission decision from your Host Institution. It can take up to a month for Host Institutions to process and decide on formal admission. While the majority of students nominated by U of A are admitted by the Host Institution, the Host Institution has final authority to decide.

In some instances, a letter of admission may be sent directly to the student from the Host Institution while in other cases the Host Institution will notify the Program Contact.

While you are encouraged to make tentative plans to participate once U of A nominates you, you should not make any plans which cannot be easily changed until formal written acceptance has been received from the Host Institution.

It is your responsibility to ensure visa, transportation, accommodation, health and travel insurance, and banking needs are met prior to your departure.

Once accepted by the Host Institution, you may need to fill out a Student Exchange/Study Abroad Program Form in order to:

- I) remain registered at U of A during the approved study abroad period
- II) have access to advance registration for the academic period following the study abroad program
- III) retain access to student loans and available special awards and scholarships for study abroad programs

You may need to fill out a Student Exchange/Study Abroad Program Form if you are participating in a Short Term Program Program that requires registration in an appropriate EXCH 8XX course at U of A for the study abroad period. This registration will generate tuition and fees that will be payable directly to U of A. Likewise, if you plan to use student loans to pay for your Short Term Program program, you will need to complete this form and will be registered in ABROD 800. You will be responsible for any fees associated with this registration status. If you are unsure about needing to complete this form, please consult with your program coordinator at Education Abroad.

IV. PROGRAM COSTS

Detailed program costs for each Short Term Program program are available online at goabroad.ualberta.ca

You must take full responsibility for all financial matters. Neither the University of Alberta nor the Host Institution is responsible for providing financial support unless explicitly communicated in writing.

Option 1: Tuition paid to U of A

By registering in an “EXCH” course, students are required to pay tuition and fees, corresponding to three, six, or nine credits per term, to U of A.

Registration in the "EXCH" course will drop registration in all other courses. It is possible, under certain conditions, for you to also register in other U of A courses in addition to the “EXCH” course. In this situation, you would be required to pay the additional tuition fees associated with any courses beyond the “EXCH” course.

Other exceptions include:

- students in the Faculties of Law and Faculties of Dentistry, Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences, and Medicine and Oral Health Sciences who may be assessed additional program costs
- students on a Study Permit (international students) who will be required to pay regular fees plus the international differential fee
- students in certain faculties have voted to be assessed an additional Faculty Student Fund fee in accordance with the Students' Union bylaws. Fees range from $3-$50 per term. Engineering, Campus Saint-Jean, and Law are examples of some faculties which assess this fee.

Option 2: Tuition paid to the host institution

Students pay all fees to the Host Institution (except the $250 Nomination Fee). If a student requires proof of registration for student loan purposes then they may be registered in ABROD 800. In an “ABROD” course, you will be required to pay transcript and registration fees and the Common Student Space, Sustainability and Services (CoSSS) Fee to U of A for the duration of your program.

Once payment of tuition and fees has been made, you will have access to Host Institution facilities as per normally registered students. Some institutions may levy additional fees for services not covered under the exchange agreement.

No refunds of tuition and program fees paid to the host institution will be made. Any changes to course selection must be approved by the host institution and by your home faculty. Additional courses taken will be assessed additional program fees as outlined in the program brochures and as specified by the host institution.

Additional Costs

You must take full responsibility for all financial matters. Neither U of A nor the Host Institution is responsible for providing financial support unless explicitly communicated in writing. Additional costs include the $250 nomination fee paid to the Education Abroad Program at the time of nomination. Other costs to consider are ancillary health care and travel insurance as well as costs associated with travel to and from the host destination such as visas.

Funding & Financial Assistance

U of A awards and scholarships can be used to participate in most SAPs. The Program Contact can advise you of any available funding. Any arrangement for financial support from the Host Institution is your responsibility. Be sure to obtain written assurance of any financial support before traveling.

You can start an application for a student loan for a SAP in advance of either nomination or formal acceptance. For most SAPs, U of A remains the designated institution. If applying for a student loan, please visit this website (<https://www.ualberta.ca/international/go-abroad/get-funding/government-student-loans>) and contact Student Connect for more information.

A number of study abroad programs also include a limited number of scholarships. Information is available online on the respective program finder pages. Visit this website for funding opportunities:

<https://www.ualberta.ca/international/go-abroad/get-funding>

V. PRE-DEPARTURE PREPARATION

All students participating in formal SAPs sponsored by the Education Abroad Program are required to complete the Education Abroad Online Pre-Departure course and in person orientation. The Online Pre-Departure course modules address administrative procedures, as well as a wide variety of important topics such as healthcare issues, travel tips, security issues, cultural adjustment, budgets, insurance, and money. Information on

The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to withdraw a student's nomination for participation in any Study Abroad program where a student does not complete the Education Abroad Online Pre-Departure course and in person orientation.

XV. HEALTH INSURANCE, SAFETY & SECURITY

Health and Travel Insurance while Abroad

When traveling abroad, you should be aware of four general types of insurance coverage that you can obtain: medical insurance, travel insurance, trip cancellation insurance, and personal effects insurance. It is MANDATORY for students participating in education abroad programs to be covered by a required level of HEALTH, TRAVEL and TRIP CANCELLATION insurance. Please click here for detailed information on the health and travel insurance requirements by the University's Insurance and Risk Assessment Office. Insurance regarding personal effects is not mandatory. Insurance coverage must be acknowledged on the Education Abroad Waiver and plan details must be included in the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry.

U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry

When participating in a program through the Education Abroad Program it is mandatory to register on the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry (<https://www.ualberta.ca/why-ualberta/international/go-abroad/ugo-international-sos>), an electronic registry that records all off-campus international travel. Students must also provide insurance and emergency contact information when signing up for U-GO. The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to terminate a student's program abroad should they fail to register on the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry prior to their program. U-GO registration must be completed at least three weeks prior to the program start date.

Education Abroad Waiver

Students must acknowledge all risks associated with their program abroad and sign the Education Abroad Waiver prior to their program abroad, as well as have a witness sign the form. All SAP students are asked to indicate names of people to whom the Program Contact can release information. The information they release is pertinent to the SAP and contained in their file. All SAP students are also asked to provide the names and contact information of people the Education Abroad Program can contact in the event of an emergency. The waiver is housed within the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry. The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to terminate a student's program abroad should they fail to provide the Education Abroad Waiver prior to their program. The Education Abroad Waiver must be completed at least three weeks prior to the program start date.

Safety & Security

The current world reality is that travelling, living, and studying abroad places students at increased risk related to their safety and security beyond what they might experience if they do not travel abroad. By choosing to participate in an SAP, students recognize that there are associated increased levels of risk for health, safety and security. In order to help students prepare for their sojourn abroad, students must be familiar with the information on the Global Affairs Canada website (travel.gc.ca) and International SOS (internationalsos.com). Preparation is the key to successful travel. By doing your homework before you leave, you minimize the chances of something going wrong once abroad. All students must complete a Risk Assessment and Management Plan prior to going abroad ensuring they are aware of the risks of travelling and have it approved by the Risk Management Coordinator. The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to terminate a student's program abroad should they fail to provide an acceptable Risk Assessment and Management Plan prior to their program. The Risk Assessment and Management Plan must be submitted at least three weeks prior to the program start date.

Global Affairs Canada Information & Assistance for Canadians Abroad (travel.gc.ca):

Revised: October 2022

You will find a broad range of information to help you prepare for a safe and enjoyable journey. Global Affairs Canada not only offers consular services to Canadians around the world but also provides them with official travel information and advice, on behalf of the Government of Canada, to promote their safety and security overseas. The information must be credible and the advice timely to enable Canadians to be well prepared before departure, to minimize risks, and to make informed judgments, and responsible decisions while abroad

International SOS

U of A students have access to International SOS travel risk information and advisories, this information can be accessed using the information provided in this link.

Travel Advice & Advisories

Global Affairs Canada Travel Advice and Advisories are also available at travel.gc.ca and offer information on safety and security, local laws and customs, entry requirements, health conditions and other important travel issues.

U of A travel policy dictates that students must receive Faculty Dean approval for travel to any destination with a level 3 (avoid non-essential travel) or level 4 (avoid all travel) Advisory from Global Affairs Canada or if students have not received a COVID-19 vaccine series. Students who have received a COVID-19 vaccine series and travelling to a destination with a level 1 (exercise normal security precautions) or level 2 (exercise a high degree of caution) advisory level will require program coordinator approval pending completion of the pre-departure preparations and risk management steps.

Travel Advisories provide the Government of Canada's official travel advice, recommending that Canadians postpone or avoid travel to a country, or specific region(s) of a country, when credible information suggests that it is not safe to travel. Travel Advisories constitute an integral part of the travel Advisories in which they appear. Students must check the Travel Advice and Advisories when conducting research and choosing their SAP destination.

The decision to travel is the sole responsibility of the traveler. The traveler is also responsible for his or her own personal safety. The purpose of travel advice is to provide Canadians with up-to-date information to enable them to make well-informed decisions. For additional information, please see the FAQs on the Travel and Tourism page. (travel.gc.ca).

VI. PARTICIPATING IN A SHORT TERM PROGRAM

U of A can only provide Short Term Study Abroad Program opportunities as a result of special agreements and relationships with a partner Institution. You need to be aware that you may often be required to work with two very different university administrative and academic systems – with different perspectives and styles of management within different cultural contexts. For you, as for all students, this will be one of your greatest challenges and learning opportunities. By agreeing to participate in a Short Term Program, you agree to not engage in behaviour viewed as inappropriate or unacceptable or that contravenes the 'Ambassador Role' you assume by applying to participate in a U of A Study Abroad Program. Serious infractions can constitute grounds for termination of a student's program. Students participating in Short Term SAPs must assume responsibility for this special role. While on a program, students must obey the rules and regulations of the Host Institution.

In addition to being bound by the rules and regulations of the Host Institution and the laws of their host country, you are expected to demonstrate sensitivity to the local cultural and societal norms. Students are considered representatives of U of A, and as such you are expected to behave in a manner that reflects positively on the University. While U of A will work closely with all students to ensure that they are treated fairly while at the Host Institution, you need to be aware that the issue of 'fair treatment' is often defined culturally in different and complex manners. At U of A, as in most North American universities, student behavioural expectations are often explicitly defined in 'codes of student behaviour'. This is often not the case in many foreign universities. In many instances, broad societal and cultural norms are used to define behavioural expectations for students. U of A students studying abroad are provided general information and orientation to this issue as part of the Pre-departure Session, and through materials and handouts. Students are also expected to devote time on their own to learning about cultural norms and behavioural expectations associated with the country to which they are going, prior to their departure. If a Host Institution notifies U of A that it deems a U of A Study Abroad student's behaviour inappropriate, including academic performance, this will be communicated to the student. A major infraction, as defined by the Host Institution, or repeated incidents of inappropriate behaviour, can result in the Host Institution terminating a student's program. If their program has been terminated by the Host Institution, there will be no reimbursement of any fees and students will be responsible for any additional expenses associated with the termination of their program.

If at any point you have a concern with any aspect of your Short Term Program, you are advised to first share this concern with the Short Term Study Abroad Advisor. If you feel your concern has not been addressed you should then ask the Coordinator to speak with their supervisor to discuss your concern. If this is not possible or if you prefer to speak with another person about your concern, you are advised to contact the Student Ombud service, University Student Services.

VII. COMING HOME

Undergraduate and graduate students are not required to submit an application for re-admission to resume studies at U of A as long as re-registration takes place within six months of the end of the SAP period.

SAPs are not generally designed to allow you to complete a degree at another institution. You are expected to return to U of A upon completion of the program. Extension beyond the approved program period requires written consent of the designated officials of each institution.

Study Abroad Returned Student Reports

Upon returning to U of A, you are encouraged to complete a Study Abroad Returned Student Report. The information that you provide in the Returned Student Report about your SAP experience is greatly appreciated and will be shared with other students who are interested in studying abroad. By providing feedback, you can assist others as they prepare for their own adventure abroad. It also allows you to express your opinion about different elements of your experience abroad. Any section of the report that contains personal contact information from you is confidential and only used for tracking purposes. You can access the template to fill out for the report from your online U of A application.

VIII. ACADEMIC CREDIT TRANSFER

Once nominated, you should first consult with an advisor in your department to ensure the pre-approved credit as outlined in the Short Term Program descriptions are applicable to your degree program. This information will help your faculty decide how credit will transfer for completed course work while on the Short Term Program.

You should understand that there is an element of academic risk involved in studying abroad. It is important to understand that courses approved for transfer credit by your home faculty at U of A only indicate your proposed course of study at the Host Institution. U of A faculty approval, however, does not guarantee access to the courses at the Host Institution – only the Host Institution can guarantee registration in their courses. The sooner you apply to the partner institution, the sooner your course registration may be finalized.

If changes in circumstance require you to switch courses, then it is your responsibility to contact your faculty directly as soon as possible. The ultimate authority for a U of A program rests with your home faculty. You should ensure that any concerns regarding your participation in a Short Term Program are satisfied before you leave. If you feel you must receive credit for a specific and limited number of courses while on the Short Term Program, you should recognize the risks and carefully consider whether or not to participate.

Transfer credit is dependent on courses available at the Host Institution and faculty approval of the courses you take. It is your responsibility to ensure you are aware of and understand your home faculty's policies on credit transfer. No transfer credit will be given until official hard-copy transcripts are received. Transcripts from the Host Institution are sent directly to the Education Abroad Office upon completion of the Short Term Program. The Office forwards original transcripts to the student's Home Faculty and the Registrar's Office. It is the student's responsibility to request that an official transcript be sent to U of A. Participants should bring back all course materials including course outlines, texts, tests, written materials, etc. for consideration in awarding transfer credit. Credit transfer decisions can take up to several months to be finalized.

Where a course has been approved for credit transfer to U of A from the Host Institution the course will appear on your U of A transcript as transfer credit with the granted course weight. No grade or assessment for the course will appear on your U of A transcript. The U of A transcript will note you participated in a formal U of A Study Abroad Program and the name of the Host Institution.

In order for courses to be considered for credit transfer you must:

1. receive permission in advance from your home faculty;
2. be in good standing in your ongoing degree program; and,
3. not have exceeded the maximum amount of transfer credit allowed by your faculty.

In some instances your Home Faculty may need to make a 'grade conversion' for one or more of the courses you undertook while on the SAP. The mark you received for courses at the Host Institution is converted into U of A's 4-point scale. This may be required if you are in an honours program, if you are eligible to graduate with distinction, if you are applying for some U of A Awards, or if you leave while in one faculty and intend to change to another faculty upon your return. You should consult your Faculty Programs Office if there is a chance you may fall under one of these categories. The intent of the grade conversion is to compare your performance in the SAP to a level of comparable academic performance at the U of A. Most students do not require grade conversions.

Most faculties normally award credit for approved courses in which a grade of "C-" or its equivalent, is achieved. U of A policy for credit transfer does not permit credit transfer of courses completed at another institution and in which "D" or less has been obtained. Courses with a grade of "D" will not be credited towards a U of A degree. Credit for such courses will be considered on a pass-fail basis only and will not be included in any grade point average calculation. Consult the section of U of A calendar for your home faculty to find out if your faculty has any other requirements.

IX. PROGRAM WITHDRAWAL OR TERMINATION

The University of Alberta and the Host Institution reserve the right to revoke your nomination and cancel your Study Abroad Program at any time if:

- you do not adhere to program procedures
- you do not complete or submit required documents by deadlines
- you do not follow the student code of conduct
- you contravene the U of A or Host Institution's rules and regulations
- you do not make required payments
- you do not complete the Education Abroad Online and In person Pre-Departure Orientation
- you do not submit an approved Risk Assessment and Management Plan, register in the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry, submit a signed Education Abroad Waiver.
- there has been a significant negative change in your situation in an area(s) of relevance to the program (e.g. a significant drop in academic performance after nomination, you engage in activities that place you or the personal safety of others at risk, you engage in activities or behaviours that compromise the ability of the Program Administrators at either the Home or Host Institution to ensure the success of your program in their opinion)
- you demonstrate behaviour, prior to commencing or during your SAP, that damages the special relationship between U of A and the Host Institution in the opinion of both U of A and Host Institution Program Contacts

Short-term Study Abroad Programs: Due to the intensive nature of the programs, participants who decide to withdraw from the program must consider doing so within the first three days of classes and by any deadline at the host institution. If the course is offered by U of A, students must adhere to the add/drop deadline in the U of A Calendar. Withdrawal after this date will result in a transcript being issued with a fail grade for the courses not taken.

Students, who withdraw from a Short Term Study Abroad Program after nomination, will not as a general rule be permitted to reapply at a later date to the same institution without evidence of extenuating circumstances surrounding their withdrawal and approval of the Short Term Study Abroad Program administrator.

Program Cancellation or Modification Due to Issues of Safety and Security

U of A, through a variety of sources including the Global Affairs Canada website (travel.gc.ca), undertakes a constant monitoring and evaluation of the destinations where it runs approved student programs internationally. This assessment /monitoring seeks to identify any risks associated with the location to determine if potential risks are deemed sufficient to cancel or modify programs planned or operating in a country or region. The university reserves the right to cancel or modify its programs abroad where it deems unmanageable risk to students exists. At a minimum, U of A observes the Travel Restriction placed on countries and regions as outlined in Travel Advisories for the purpose of determining where programs are allowed to operate for undergraduate study. U of A uses additional sources of information in determining where unmanageable risks exist and reserves the right, based upon its assessment of unwarranted and unmanageable risk, to cancel or modify SAPs at any time.

Students agree to follow recommended precautions and advice, provided by U of A and accept that when deemed appropriate U of A may need to cancel or terminate SAPs abroad due to health and safety concerns.

U of A will cancel all SAPs in a country and require students to leave the country where the Global Affairs Canada Travel Advisory for that country is listed as a level 3 (avoid non-essential travel) or level 4 (avoid all travel) . U of A may cancel a SAP prior to its commencement or at any time during its operation if: (1) such a Travel Advisory is issued by Global Affairs Canada; or (2) if U of A deems the situation in a country has changed so as to possess certain risks to the safety and security of students.

XI. REFUND POLICY

Nomination Fee: Each applicant who is nominated for an SAP is required to pay the $250 nomination fee.

The $250 nomination fee for all SAP is ONLY refunded if:

- An applicant meets the EAP criteria, EAP nominates the student for a program, but the host organization/institution does not offer a place to the applicant.
- EAP is unsuccessful in offering a placement for a student.
- In exceptional extenuating circumstances (documented illness, etc).

The $250 nomination fee is NOT refunded;

- if an applicant misses deadlines during the application process and subsequently has his/her application cancelled by the U of A and/or by the host institution / organization;
- if there are changes to the applicant's academic standing after they are nominated by the Education Abroad Program and those changes result in the host organization/institution not offering a placement/position to the applicant or at the request of the applicant's U of A home faculty;
- if the applicant is offered a placement/position at a host institution/organization and subsequently does not accept the placement/position.

If the University of Alberta decides to cancel a program for health and safety reasons prior to a program's commencement refund of applicable tuition and program fees paid to the University of Alberta for the program will be considered. Administration and nomination fees paid to the University of Alberta may not be refunded.

If the University of Alberta decides to cancel a program for health and safety reasons after it has started any refund of tuition and fees will depend upon several factors including: (1) how much of the program has been completed; (2) the refund policy of the host institution which is providing the program; and (3) refund limitations due to non-recoverable amounts and/or contractual obligations for the payment of fees placed upon either the student or the University of Alberta.

If a student participating in a University of Alberta study abroad program chooses to withdraw from a program that has not been cancelled for any reason, the University of Alberta will review all requests from students to terminate a program early for legitimate reasons and any possibility of a refund.

Students choosing to participate in a study abroad program must accept as a condition of participation that should a decision be made to cancel or end a program due to concerns over the safety and security of students, program participants may encounter additional and unexpected financial and academic repercussions. The University of Alberta will work closely with such students to mitigate any possible negative implications of such a decision to the best of its ability. Students should, as a general rule, ensure among other things that they consider carefully the purchase of travel and program interruption insurance and purchasing airline tickets that can have the return date modified with limited or no penalty. The University can accept no responsibility for refunds on any moneys paid to third parties as part of the study abroad program.

Short-term Study Abroad Programs: Due to the intensive nature of the programs, participants who decide to withdraw from the program must consider doing so within the first three days of classes and by any deadline at the host institution. If the course is offered by the University of Alberta, students must adhere to the add/drop deadline in the University of Alberta Calendar. Withdrawal after this date will result in a transcript being issued with a fail grade for the courses not taken. No financial reimbursement will be made for program withdrawals.

XII. POINTS TO CONSIDER

Faculty Specific Information

- Faculty of Engineering students must complete the 2nd year of their specialized program before starting their program. They must also have a minimum cumulative GPA (last 4 academic terms) of 3.3.
- School of Business students must have completed their first year of the business program at the U of A before participating in a study abroad program.
- Students in honours or specialization programs must have consent of their academic advisors before participating in a study abroad program. Most programs will allow participation on a SAP, however special permission must be granted for thesis work.

Passport and Immigration Documents

You will not be able to proceed with immigration matters (i.e. student visas) until official acceptance from the Host Institution is received. At that point, communication with the nearest consular representative can begin (addresses are available on-line). The immigration process varies according to the country. It is your responsibility to ensure that you apply for, and receive, all necessary documents and visas prior to the SAP.

Citizenship and Nationality Issues

Canadians who have more than one nationality through birth, descent, marriage, or naturalization are advised that while in the country of their nationality they may be subject to all its laws and obligations, particularly military service. Please note that your 'nationality' refers to your status of belonging to a particular nation, whether by birth (your birth, your parents' birth, or possibly even grandparents in some cases) or naturalization, and is different than that of your 'citizenship' where citizenship is the status, rights, and duties of a citizen, especially of a particular country. For example, if a Canadian-born student who has Greek parents holding Canadian citizenship went to Greece to learn the language/culture, etc. of the "mother country" he/she could find him or herself conscripted into the Greek army with no recourse. Why? According to Greek law, if your parents are Greek, then you are Greek, even if YOU don't officially have Greek citizenship or a Greek passport. In the eyes of the Greek government, you are a Greek national. If you are going to study abroad in a country where you know you have nationality (or may have nationality by default due to your parents and/or grandparents), please ensure you consult with the office that handles immigration matters in that country to see what laws and local customs you may be subject to.

Housing

The U of A Program Contact can provide general information on accommodation at the Host Institution. Once formal acceptance has been received or where advised by the Program Contact, you are responsible for communicating directly with the Host Institution on housing and food matters. Host Institutions which do not provide accommodation for students often provide assistance to you in locating accommodation. Once you submit your housing request to the Host Institution, it is your responsibility to provide any additional information or required deposits to ensure a room is reserved.

Travel Arrangements

Travel costs and arrangements should be explored when first considering a Study Abroad Program. You may want to determine your travel plans shortly after you apply for a program and book your flights as far in advance as possible. However, you should not pay for your ticket until formal acceptance has been received.

Students with Disabilities and Special Needs

The Education Abroad Program encourages all students, including students with disabilities, to consider incorporating a study abroad experience into their academic program. While students with disabilities may need to consider some special issues that arise as a consequence of studying and living in another country beyond those that they may normally deal with here in Canada – the value of undertaking the extra work necessary to participate in an international experience can be well worth the time and energy. For further information on participating in a study abroad program, please consult the Education Abroad Program's Policy for "Students with Disabilities and Special Needs" in section XII of this document.

Student Loans

You may have access to student loans while participating in a Study Abroad Program. Questions regarding student loans can be addressed to the Financial Aid Office at financial.aid@ualberta.ca

Advance Registration from Abroad

Students may use the Beartracks on-line registration system to register in courses for the term following completion of their SAP program. You should discuss your return to the University of Alberta and to your faculty with a faculty program advisor prior to departure.

Income Tax

If you are participating in a SAP, you will obtain regular income tax documentation for tuition and fees from the University of Alberta for all tuition and fees you paid to the University of Alberta. If you are participating in a Study Abroad Program where you pay your tuition to your Host Institution, you should obtain your tuition and fees receipts directly from them. SAPs less than 13 weeks in duration where tuition and fees are paid to the host institution are ineligible to receive tax credit.

Study Abroad Address

You are required to update your contact information on the U-Go Off-Campus Travel Registry once you have arrived at your host destination in case there is a need to communicate any relevant information or details to you while you are on your Study Abroad Program.

Final Thoughts

While there are many people willing to assist you, you are ultimately responsible for your decisions concerning your academic program. Proper steps should be followed and you should ensure your concerns are satisfied before leaving on a Study Abroad Program.

XIII. EDUCATION ABROAD POLICY FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES AND SPECIAL NEEDS

The Education Abroad Program (EAP) encourages all students to consider incorporating a study abroad experience into their academic program. While students with disabilities may need to consider some special issues that arise as a consequence of studying and living in another country beyond those they may normally deal with here in Canada – the value of undertaking the extra work necessary to participate in an international experience can be well worth the time and energy. This policy has been prepared to provide information, encouragement, and guidance to students with disabilities interested in participating in a U of A study abroad program.

C. Pre-selection steps

1. When considering participation in an international SAP, the first step is to investigate your options and to get some general information surrounding how to choose a program. In this regard, you must first review the Education Abroad Program's Information on our web pages at www.goabroad.ualberta.ca.
2. Now you are ready to identify the program(s) that are of most interest to you and best meet your needs. While students with disabilities are encouraged to examine all our study abroad possibilities for which they have interest, it is important to recognize at this point that not all of our partner universities abroad will be able to offer reasonable accommodations for students with some types of disabilities.

Reasonable accommodations are adjustments made to an academic or work environment that allow an individual with a disability to function successfully in the environment. Examples include ramps and lifts for persons with mobility disabilities and sign interpreters for hearing impaired individuals. Students must recognize that reasonable accommodations are not required to be provided where they would result in undue hardship. For a service provider or employer, undue hardship may result from an accommodation request which jeopardizes the health, safety, and financial viability of the provider. An example is the inability to provide a full-time personal aide for someone due to financial restrictions.

Some students may not be aware that they may need reasonable accommodations at the study abroad site, since they may not have needed to access the Academic Success Centre at the U of A. We ask you to consider that, while you may not require accommodations at the U of A, accommodations may be needed at the study abroad site due to cultural and environmental differences. For example, Denmark is considered forward thinking in making people with disabilities an integral part of society, though at the same time they possess laws that prohibit the altering of buildings in order to preserve their heritage. A person with mobility challenges may find the environment difficult to access compared to what they have become accustomed to at the U of A.

It is also important to realize that foreign government and institutional laws and cultures related to providing services to students with disabilities differ markedly between countries and this may be a part of your considerations in selecting a suitable venue. There are a host of other differences you may not be aware of including the fact that American Sign Language will not be viable as a means of communication in a number of other English speaking countries and keyboarding is different in different countries – something to know if you use ttypes, have a sight disability, and are a touch typist. There are numerous other differences.

The delivery of disability services in other countries can be considerably different than here in Canada and at the U of A. There are resources and experts to assist you in identifying programs that can meet your interests and needs. The Academic Success Centre disability advisors at the U of A may have some insight into how to overcome barriers that you may have not anticipated because of your experience at the U of A. There are also some resources we recommend that all students with disabilities consult before proceeding in attempting to identify suitable programs. They include “Rights and Responsibilities: A Guide to National and International Disability Related Laws for International Exchange Organizations and Participants”, “A Practice of Yes: Working with Overseas Partners to Include Students with Disabilities”, and “Building Bridges: A Manual on Including People with Disabilities in International Exchange Programs”. All of these publications are online at: www.miusa.org/.

3. Once you have completed the steps above and have done some investigation to identify potential programs you can then start an online application. Some programs are open to all students while others may only be open to students in certain faculties. Should you require special accommodations in order to meet with the Program Contact and discuss your study abroad possibilities, please contact the Education Abroad Office in order that we may confirm the arrangements required before your meeting.

While a student's disability will form no part of the selection process in determining eligibility to participate in a study abroad program, the program administrator may suggest the most viable programs to meet your interests and needs. Students are also encouraged to discuss their interest in participating in a study abroad program with staff in the Academic Success Centre. The Academic Success Centre will be especially helpful in discussions on everything from funding requirements and guidelines for going abroad to differences in technology and service delivery in other jurisdictions. The secret for having a successful study abroad experience is the same for all students – preparation, preparation, and preparation! While it is not mandatory prior to being selected to participate in an SAP for students with disabilities to consult with the Academic Success Centre, it is strongly advised.

D. Post-selection steps

1. Once you have received a formal nomination from the Program Contact at the U of A notifying you that you have been selected to participate in a study abroad program, you must consider whether you will need special accommodation from the Host Institution. For students with disabilities where there is an obvious or potential need for some form of accommodation to be made by the Host Institution, you are then required to meet with both your Academic Success Centre and Short Term Programs Coordinator to determine what, if any, accommodations and or special supports may need to be articulated and confirmed with the Host Institution. In consultation with the student, Academic Success Centre staff will recommend the supports required to fulfill academic responsibilities.

Due to the importance of ensuring that appropriate accommodations are in place at the Host Institution, working with the Academic Success Centre is mandatory for all students with disabilities who have been nominated to participate in a study abroad program and who will require accommodation from the Host Institution. The Academic Success Centre is designated by the University's General Faculties Council Policy as the body which is primarily responsible for providing disability services for staff and students at the University of Alberta.

2. As a general practice, an office similar to the Academic Success Centre at your Host Institution will seek information on your disability and requirements for accommodation so that it can assess the Host Institution's ability to provide required accommodations. Additionally, the Academic Success Centre and the disability office at the Host Institution may need, on your behalf, to complete various forms and paperwork related to things such as applying for funding to cover the cost of the services and products recommended etc. Academic Success Centre staff will help guide you through the process of applying for funding, which, in some cases, requires additional appointments off campus with government representatives. Funding is available for a great majority of support services and equipment provided by the Academic Success Centre, and to cover other specific disability-related costs. You will also want to discuss with the Academic Success Centre if you can use any funding that you may already receive for studying at the U of A with you when you go abroad. If you cannot take your funding with you, you will need to start planning your new budget.
3. Reasonable accommodations will be recommended by the Academic Success Centre in consultation with the student, the Education Abroad Program office, and the study abroad site. Accommodations which would require a fundamental alteration of the program, would present an undue hardship, or are not seen as acceptable by the Host Institution may not be provided. Canadian and Alberta legislation related to issues such as duty to accommodate are not binding upon foreign universities and decisions on accommodations are therefore made on a case-by-case, country-by-country, and institution-by-institution basis.

If the study abroad site is reluctant to provide the requested accommodations, then another study abroad site will have to be selected. Students need to recognize that even though all of our SAPs are open to you, the SAP institution may find accommodating a student with a disability an undue hardship. Thus it is important for the student to have done some research into an institution's level of accessibility and for the student to have an alternative choice for study abroad as noted earlier in this document. We recommend that you have 1 or 2 more desired choices as alternatives in case your first choice cannot support the needed accommodations.

4. Neither the U of A nor the study abroad site are obliged to provide accommodations to students who do not provide the required medical certification or who do not make timely requests for accommodations. Should a student only disclose disability accommodation needs once abroad, then the Academic Success Centre, the Education Abroad Program office and the study abroad site will determine if the student still qualifies to participate and what accommodations, if any, can be provided. It is therefore required that students disclose information about their disability-related needs upon being nominated for a program and well in advance of their planned departure to ensure that any necessary accommodation requests can be considered. If you wait until the last minute to request accommodations then it may not be possible to make appropriate arrangements.
5. Students are not obligated to disclose any information pertaining to their disability as part of the application process. If a student brings disability-related personal property to the Host Institution then the student is responsible ensuring adequate personal effects insurance. Neither the U of A nor the Host Institution can be held accountable for the safety and security of the student's own disability-related personal property.

XIV. U of A ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS POLICY

The University has approved an Electronic Communications Policy for Students and Applicants. See full policy: <http://www.registrarsoffice.ualberta.ca/About/U-of-A-Electronic-Communications-Policy.aspx>

When appropriate, the University will send you important information through e-mail. As a result, you will receive this information in a timely way and can follow up promptly.

Key Points Regarding Electronic Communications

Check your ualberta.ca e-mail account at least once a day.

Please login to the Education Abroad Online Pre-Departure course at least once a week

- All students and applicants are assigned a University of Alberta Campus Computing ID (CCID) with e-mail privileges. The 'CCID@ualberta.ca' e-mail address originally assigned by the University is the e-mail address to which communications will be sent.
- See the Information Services and Technology (IST) website for detailed information on CCIDs, conditions of use, and related privileges: <https://ist.ualberta.ca/>

- You must advise IST immediately of any problems encountered with University e-mail accounts by contacting the Help Desk through email at ist@ualberta.ca , through live chat at <https://uofaprod.service-now.com/ess/livechat.do> or by calling 780-492-9400
- We recommend that you do not forward your University directed e-mail to other non-University e-mail addresses such as those provided by Gmail, Hotmail, Yahoo, Shaw, Telus, etc. as you could miss important communications that may affect your University career

*Failure to receive or read University communications sent to the University e-mail address in a timely manner does not absolve students and applicants from knowing, responding to, or complying with the content of that communication.

This document is intended to provide students who are interested in participating in a University of Alberta Work and Research Abroad Program (UWRAP) with information about procedures and conditions of participation. Students applying to participate in a UWRAP are required to read this document before meeting with the Program Contact or submitting an application and will be required to sign a form indicating that they have read and agreed to the conditions noted herein.

I. DEFINITIONS

Education Abroad Program (EAP) – is the administrative unit within University of Alberta International which manages and administers study, work & research abroad programs for the University of Alberta. EAP directly supports students in their study, work, research and volunteer abroad endeavours through info sessions, maintenance and staffing of the Education Abroad Resource Library, Pre-Departure Sessions, publication of the Education Abroad Handbook, advisors and servicing of the University of Alberta's partners. EAP also supports faculty administrators in their efforts to provide student mobility opportunities.

Internship, research placement, clinical rotation and work placement: For the purposes of this document, the terms internship, research placement, clinical rotation, work experience, cooperative education (co-op), experiential learning and work placement, are considered to be either work or research. They are defined as: any short-term, supervised work experience usually related to a student's field of major, for which the student may or may not earn academic credit and which are intended primarily as learning and training experiences vs being a career position or job. The work can be full- or part-time, is internationally based, and is paid or unpaid. All the above mentioned types of programs are referred to as Work & Research Abroad Programs (WRAPs) in this document.

Work & Research Abroad Programs (WRAPs): WRAPs give University of Alberta students an opportunity to work internationally during a Short Term Program, academic term or year. This allows students to gain practical experience in their field of study, and a competitive edge over other students in their graduating class. Most WRAPs programs require that you remain registered in one or more special courses at the University of Alberta while participating in the WRAPs.

There are several types of WRAPs:

- I. WRAP only
WRAPs only programs are work terms with no study component. Students would be placed in a full time or part-time position for a term or year. This includes international practicum placements, clinical rotations and research placements. These Terms of Participation are in reference to WRAPs only Education Abroad Programs.
- II. Combined Study and WRAPs
The combined Study and WRAPs allow students to study for one or two terms at a partner university and then participate in a work or research term administered by that university or a partner organization. In addition to reading the Work Abroad Terms of Student Participation you MUST read the Study Abroad Terms of Student Participation if choosing a Combined Study and WRAPs.

Host University – refers to the university abroad through which the WRAPs placement will be administered.

Host Organization – the organization, company, third party work placement provider, or Partner University lab, or industrial lab with which a student is placed for the duration of the WRAPs.

II. APPLICATION PROCESS

Students who apply must meet the basic application requirements and demonstrate personal suitability. The basic application requirements may vary for each WRAPs. Students are responsible to research what these requirements are and to ensure that they are met prior to applying. More information regarding each WRAPs can be found online. The program specific application process is outlined on the Go Abroad website.

If you are considering applying for a combined Study & WRAPs, you will follow the Study Abroad Program application process and if nominated to a WRAPs, you will be notified on how to proceed to apply for the Work and Research Abroad portion of the program. All students applying for a combined program must meet the Work and Research Abroad Program deadlines and the Study Abroad Program Deadlines (which generally fall before the WRAPs deadlines).

General requirements for WRAPs are:

Revised: October 2022

1. Good academic standing (*2.5 cumulative GPA, *2.7 current GPA)
2. Personal suitability
3. Available finances
4. Foreign language skills (where necessary)
5. Two letters of reference (1 academic, 1 professional)
6. Resume
7. Letter of Intent- outlining your personal, academic and professional goals.
8. Other requirements specific to your program of interest, as outlined on the program information

May vary for some programs*

Program Eligibility

All WRAPs are competitive, and have limited space. Students must meet the above mentioned basic application requirements. The online application form, supporting documents, and in some cases, an interview will be determining factors in the selection process. Students who wish to use WRAPs to earn credit towards their degree program should consult a faculty/department advisor.

All students enrolled in a four year University of Alberta degree program are eligible to apply for a WRAPs so long as they meet the general requirements.

Some WRAPs allow recent graduates to apply and participate, specific rules apply. View the program information for further details.

Step 1: View the Information on the Go Abroad Website

If you are considering participating in a WRAPs, you must first view our work abroad information online at www.goabroad.ualberta.ca.

Step 2: Research

After viewing this session, you will be able to research specific programs using the Go Abroad Program Finder online www.goabroad.ualberta.ca. Given that a number of WRAPs are competitive, you are encouraged to investigate alternative options by identifying three potential WRAPs as part of your research. There is no additional cost to apply for more than one program and to list alternative WRAPs options.

Step 3: Create an Account on the Online Application System

Once you have reviewed the information on the website and conducted research on potential WRAPs, you can create an account on the online application system at www.goabroad.ualberta.ca.

Step 4: Submit Your Completed Online Application

Applicants can submit an application by the appropriate deadline. Deadlines are noted in the Go Abroad Program Finder (and online for EAP options).

Submit one online application listing your preferences of WRAPs. Incomplete application packages will not be accepted.

Eligible students will be guided on all necessary application material and fees by their Program Contact. An application package for those programs administered by the Education Abroad Program includes:

1. Completed Online Application Form
2. Official Transcript(s) of ALL post-secondary work
3. Up-to-date Resume
4. Two letters of Reference (1 academic and 1 professional)
5. Letter of intent outlining your personal, academic, and professional goals

6. Nomination Fee of $250 for programs administered by the Education Abroad Program. EAP ONLY accepts online credit card payments (please see refund policy section XI for refund policy).

Step 5: Interviews

All application packages will be reviewed by a selection committee. The selection committee will create a short list of candidates that will be eligible for an interview. The interview along with the application package will be used to confirm eligibility and make acceptance and placement decisions. Interviews will be conducted by the program contact. Applicants for particular programs may be required to go through an interview committee or participate in a second interview.

Those submitting an application for a WRAPs will be notified through an email to their University of Alberta account as to whether they have been selected for an interview and they will be required to select a time/day for the interview from an online list. It is the applicant's responsibility to check their email in a timely fashion and carry out any directions provided in the email notification.

Some programs may not require an interview.*

III. NOMINATION AND ACCEPTANCE

As there are a limited number of spots available for some programs placement of students into available spots will occur based on a candidate ranking. Candidates that meet all the criteria and have had a successful interview will be nominated to a WRAPs. An email notification will be sent to students nominated to the WRAPs along with further instructions on the next steps. Students are responsible to check their emails and ensure that they meet any deadlines provided. Once a student is nominated their application package will be forwarded to the Host University/Host Organisation for final approval. The status of your online account will change from 'Application under review' to 'Selected'.

For those applying to a combine Study & WRAPs the WRAPs nomination MAY be CONDITIONAL upon being accepted to the STUDY EXCHANGE component.

A nomination and acceptance of nomination does not signify that a work placement will be secured. A WRAPs position is considered secured once an offer has been made by the Host University or Host Organization and the student has accepted the offer. Students should be aware that for certain WRAPs, work placements are not guaranteed although there is a very high rate of placements that are secured. Participants should also be aware that once an offer is made by a company or organization and it is refused by the student there is no guarantee that an alternative placement will be found.

IV. COURSE REGISTRATION FOR WRAPs

Participants considering taking part in a combined Study & WRAPs must consult the Study Abroad Terms of Student Participation in addition to the Work Abroad Terms of Student Participation in order to learn about receiving credit for the study component of their program.

Course registration for WRAPs can vary by program. More detailed information is available in the program specific brochure, information sheet, or the Frequently Asked Questions booklet that pertains to your program. Some of the different scenarios you can expect to see are:

- The majority of WRAPs participants are registered in an Exchange or Abroad course administered by the Education Abroad Program. These courses are a registration tool that will allow the students to: a) maintain their student status at the U of A; b) generate the appropriate tuition and fees for the program in which you will be participating. Because the Exchange and Abroad courses are only registration 'tools' the Education Abroad program does not grant credit for these courses.

- For some programs you will be registered directly in a University of Alberta course.
 - If you are participating in a WRAP that counts towards your co-op program you will be registered in one of the Work Experience courses. For some programs you will be registered in both a Work Experience course and an Exchange course. In this scenario you would be eligible to receive credit because of your registration in a Work Experience course.
 - If you are participating in a WRAP and it will count towards a practicum, clinical rotation, or community service learning course, you will register in the course designated by the faculty program coordinator. In this scenario you will be eligible to receive credit.
 - If you are in a regular stream program (non-co-op, no practicum etc) and you are participating in a WRAP that will require that you receive credit as one of the program criteria, you will have to negotiate with your faculty advisor a course in which you can register. In some cases this may be an Independent Study course. Once you have successfully completed the program the faculty will assign you a grade and credit.
 - If you have graduated, you can apply and participate in a WRAP for up to ONE year after your graduation date i.e.; if you graduated in June 2020, you have until June 2021 to apply and complete your WRAP. You will register in the Faculty of Open Studies and be enrolled in an ABROD course for the duration of your WRAP.

V. PROGRAM COSTS

Tuition paid to the University of Alberta

Students participating in a WRAP will pay University of Alberta tuition and fees corresponding to the course in which they are required to be registered for their specific WRAP.

International students enrolled in a four year University of Alberta degree program participating in a WRAP will pay international student fee rates for the work experience or exchange course in which they are registered.

Nomination Fee

All students who are nominated for a WRAP are required to pay a $250 nomination fee to the Education Abroad Program at the time of nomination.

Additional Costs

Other costs to consider are ancillary health care and travel insurance as well as costs associated with travel to and from the host destination. You must take full responsibility for all financial matters. Neither the University of Alberta nor the Host University is responsible for providing financial support unless explicitly communicated in writing.

Funding & Financial Assistance

University of Alberta awards and scholarships can be used to participate in most WRAPs. The Program Contact can advise you of any available funding. Any arrangement for financial support from the Host Institution is your responsibility. Be sure to obtain written assurance of any financial support before traveling.

You can start an application for a student loan for a WRAP in advance of either nomination or formal acceptance. For most SAPs, the University of Alberta remains the designated institution. If applying for a student loan, refer to the Program Contact for more information.

A number of study abroad programs also include a limited number of scholarships. Information is available online. You should ask the Program Contact if the program that they administer includes any special scholarships or bursaries.

VI. PRE-DEPARTURE PREPARATION

All students participating in formal WRAPs sponsored by the Education Abroad Program are required to complete the Education Abroad Online Pre-Departure course and in person orientation. The Online Pre-Departure course modules address administrative procedures, as well as a wide variety of important topics such as healthcare issues, travel tips, security issues, cultural adjustment, budgets, insurance, and money.

The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to withdraw a student's nomination for participation in any WRAP where a student does not complete the Education Abroad Online and In Person Pre-Departure Orientations.

VII. HEALTH INSURANCE, SAFETY & SECURITY

Health and Travel Insurance while Abroad

When traveling abroad, you should be aware of four general types of insurance coverage that you can obtain: medical insurance, travel insurance, trip cancellation insurance, and personal effects insurance. It is MANDATORY for students participating in education abroad programs to be covered by a required level of HEALTH, TRAVEL and TRIP CANCELLATION insurance. Please click here for detailed information on the health and travel insurance requirements by the University's Insurance and Risk Assessment Office. Insurance regarding personal effects is not mandatory. Insurance coverage must be acknowledged on the Education Abroad Waiver and plan details must be included in the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry.

U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry

When participating in a program through the Education Abroad Program it is mandatory to register on the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry (<https://www.ualberta.ca/why-ualberta/international/go-abroad/ugo-international-sos>), an electronic registry that records all off-campus international travel. Students must also provide insurance and emergency contact information when signing up for U-GO. The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to terminate a student's program abroad should they fail to register on the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry prior to their program. U-GO registration must be completed at least three weeks prior to the program start date.

Education Abroad Waiver

Students must acknowledge all risks associated with their program abroad and sign the Education Abroad Waiver prior to their program abroad, as well as have a witness sign the form. All WRAP students are asked to indicate names of people to whom the Program Contact can release information. The information they release is pertinent to the WRAP and contained in their file. All WRAP students are also asked to provide the names and contact information of people the Education Abroad Program can contact in the event of an emergency. The waiver is housed within the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry. The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to terminate a student's program abroad should they fail to provide the Education Abroad Waiver prior to their program. The Education Abroad Waiver must be completed at least three weeks prior to the program start date.

Safety & Security

The current world reality is that travelling, living, and studying abroad places students at increased risk related to their safety and security beyond what they might experience if they do not travel abroad. By choosing to participate in a WRAP, students recognize that there are associated increased levels of risk for health, safety and security. In order to help students prepare for their sojourn abroad, students must be familiar with the information on the Global Affairs Canada website (travel.gc.ca) and International SOS (internationalsos.com). Preparation is the key to successful travel. By doing your homework before you leave, you minimize the chances of something going wrong once abroad. All students must complete a Risk Assessment and Management Plan prior to going abroad ensuring they are aware of the risks of travelling and have it approved by the Risk Management Coordinator. The Education Abroad Program reserves the right to terminate a student's program abroad should they fail to provide an acceptable Risk Assessment and Management Plan prior to their program. The Risk Assessment and Management Plan must be submitted at least three weeks prior to the program start date.

Global Affairs Canada Information & Assistance for Canadians Abroad (travel.gc.ca):

You will find a broad range of information to help you prepare for a safe and enjoyable journey. Global Affairs Canada not only offers consular services to Canadians around the world but also provides them with official travel information and advice, on behalf of the Government of Canada, to promote their safety and security overseas. The information must be credible and the advice timely to enable Canadians to be well prepared before departure, to minimize risks, and to make informed judgments, and responsible decisions while abroad

International SOS

U of A students have access to International SOS travel risk information and advisories, this information can be accessed using the information provided in this link.

Travel Advice & Advisories

Global Affairs Canada Travel Advice and Advisories are also available at travel.gc.ca and offer information on safety and security, local laws and customs, entry requirements, health conditions and other important travel issues.

U of A travel policy dictates that students must receive Faculty Dean approval for travel to any destination with a level 3 (avoid non-essential travel) or level 4 (avoid all travel) Advisory from Global Affairs Canada or if students have not received a COVID-19 vaccine series. Students who have received a COVID-19 vaccine series and travelling to a destination with a level 1 (exercise normal security precautions) or level 2 (exercise a high degree of caution) advisory level will require program coordinator approval pending completion of the pre-departure preparations and risk management steps.

Travel Advisories provide the Government of Canada's official travel advice, recommending that Canadians postpone or avoid travel to a country, or specific region(s) of a country, when credible information suggests that it is not safe to travel. Travel Advisories constitute an integral part of the travel Advices in which they appear. Students must check the Travel Advice and Advisories when conducting research and choosing their WRAP destination.

The decision to travel is the sole responsibility of the traveler. The traveler is also responsible for his or her own personal safety. The purpose of travel advice is to provide Canadians with up-to-date information to enable them to make well-informed decisions. For additional information, please see the FAQs on the Travel and Tourism page. (travel.gc.ca).

VIII. PARTICIPATING IN A WRAP

The University of Alberta can only provide WRAP opportunities as a result of special agreements and relationships with a Host University and organizations. You need to be aware that you may often be required to work with two very different administrative systems – with different perspectives and styles of management within different cultural contexts. For you, as for all students, this will be one of your greatest challenges and learning opportunities. By agreeing to participate in a WRAP, you agree to not engage in behaviour viewed as inappropriate or unacceptable or that contravenes the 'Ambassador Role' you assume by applying to participate in a University of Alberta Work and Research Abroad Program. Serious infractions can constitute grounds for termination of a student's program. Students participating in WRAPs must assume responsibility for this special role. While on a program, students must obey the rules and regulations of the Host University/Organization.

In addition to being bound by the rules and regulations of the Host University/Organization and the laws of their host country, you are expected to demonstrate sensitivity to the local cultural and societal norms. Students are considered representatives of the University of Alberta, and as such you are expected to behave in a manner that reflects positively on the University. While the University of Alberta will work closely with all students to ensure that they are treated fairly while at the Host University/Organization you need to be aware that the issue of 'fair treatment' is often defined culturally in different and complex manners. At the University of Alberta, as in most North American universities, student behavioural expectations are often explicitly defined in ‘codes of student behaviour’. This is often not the case in many foreign universities. In many instances, broad societal and cultural norms are used to define behavioural expectations for students. University of Alberta students studying or working abroad are provided general information and orientation to this issue as part of the Pre-departure Sessions, and through materials and handouts. Students are also expected to devote time on their own to learning about cultural norms and behavioural expectations associated with the country to which they are going, prior to their departure. If a Host University/Organization notifies the U of A that it deems a WRAPs participant’s behaviour inappropriate, this will be communicated to the student. A major infraction, as defined by the Host University, or repeated incidents of inappropriate behaviour, can result in the Host University/Organization terminating a student’s program. If a student’s program has been terminated by the Host University/Organization, there will be no reimbursement of any fees and students will be responsible for any additional expenses associated with the termination of their program.

If at any point you have a concern with any aspect of your WRAPs, you are advised to first share this concern with your program contact. If you feel your concern has not been addressed you should then ask your program contact to speak with their supervisor to discuss your concern. If this is not possible or if you prefer to speak with another person about your concern, you are advised to contact the Student Ombud service, University Student Services.

IX. COMING HOME

Undergraduate and graduate students are not required to submit an application for re-admission to resume studies at the University of Alberta as long as re-registration takes place within six months of the end of the student WRAP period.

Study and/or WRAPs are not generally designed to allow you to complete a degree at another institution. You are expected to return to the University of Alberta upon completion of the program. Extension beyond the approved program period requires written consent of the designated officials of each institution.

Work Abroad Returned Student Reports

Upon returning to the University of Alberta, it is mandatory that all University of Alberta students who return from a WRAPs complete a Work Abroad Returned Student Report. The information that you provide in the Returned Student Report about your experience is shared with other students who are interested in working/studying abroad. By providing feedback, you can assist others as they prepare for their own adventure abroad. It also allows you to express your opinion about different elements of your experience abroad. Any section of the report that contains personal contact information from you is confidential and only used for tracking purposes. Upon your return to the University of Alberta, you will be sent an email asking you to complete the Work Abroad Returned Student Report. You MUST complete the report and submit to the Education Abroad office. In the case that a student does not complete and submit this report, official transcripts may not be released to the student’s faculty.

X. PROGRAM WITHDRAWAL OR TERMINATION

The University of Alberta and the Host University/Organization reserve the right to revoke your nomination and cancel your WRAPs at any time if:

- you do not adhere to program procedures
- you do not complete or submit required documents by deadlines
- you do not follow the student code of conduct
- you do not make required payments
- you do not complete the Education Abroad Online and In person Pre-Departure Orientation
- you do not submit an approved Risk Assessment and Management Plan, register in the U-GO Off-Campus Travel Registry, submit a signed Education Abroad Waiver.
- you contravene the U of A, Host University’s/Organization’s rules and regulations

- there has been a significant negative change in your situation in an area(s) of relevance to the program (e.g. a significant drop in academic performance after nomination, you engage in activities that place you or the personal safety of others at risk, you engage in activities or behaviours that compromise the ability of the Program Administrators at either the Home or Host University to ensure the success of your program in their opinion)
- you demonstrate behaviour, prior to commencing or during your WRAP, that damages the special relationship between the U of A and the Host University/Organization in the opinion of both the U of A and Host University Program contacts.

If you choose to withdraw from a program, the time at which you withdraw or have your program terminated will affect whether you are still eligible to register for courses at the University of Alberta and/or receive any refunds. In order to withdraw or have a program terminated without financial penalty (forfeiting the tuition and fees paid), you must withdraw in accordance with formal withdrawal procedures and by the appropriate deadlines of the Host University. If you do not complete your program and fail to withdraw by formal deadlines, you are not eligible for tuition and fee refunds. In addition, the academic record from the Host University will reflect incomplete academic work if you were participating in a combined Study & WRAPs.

Program Cancellation or Modification Due to Issues of Safety and Security

The University of Alberta, through a variety of sources including the Global Affairs Canada website (travel.gc.ca), undertakes a constant monitoring and evaluation of the destinations where it runs approved student programs internationally. This assessment /monitoring seeks to identify any risks associated with the location to determine if potential risks are deemed sufficient to cancel or modify programs planned or operating in a country or region. The university reserves the right to cancel or modify its programs abroad where it deems unmanageable risk to students exists. At a minimum, the University of Alberta observes the Travel Restriction placed on countries and regions as outlined in Travel Advisories categories A through I inclusive for the purpose of determining where programs are allowed to operate for undergraduate study. The University of Alberta uses additional sources of information in determining where unmanageable risks exist and reserves the right, based upon its assessment of unwarranted and unmanageable risk, to cancel or modify programs at any time.

Students agree to follow recommended precautions and advice, provided by the University of Alberta and accept that when deemed appropriate the University of Alberta may need to cancel or terminate programs abroad due to health and safety concerns.

The University of Alberta will cancel all programs in a country and require students to leave the country where the Global Affairs Canada Travel Report for that country indicates that Canadians should not travel to and/or should leave the country. The University of Alberta may cancel a program prior to its commencement or at any time during its operation if: (1) such a Travel Report is issued by Global Affairs Canada; or (2) if the University of Alberta deems the situation in a country has changed so as to possess certain risks to the safety and security of students.

XI. REFUND POLICY

Nomination Fee: Each applicant who is nominated for an SAP and/or WRAP is required to pay the $250 nomination fee.

The $250 nomination fee is ONLY refunded if:

- An applicant meets the EAP criteria, EAP nominates the student for a program, but the host organization/institution does not offer a place to the applicant.
- EAP is unsuccessful in offering a placement for a student.
- In exceptional extenuating circumstances (documented illness, etc).

The $250 nomination fee is NOT refunded if there are changes to the applicant's academic standing after they are nominated by the Education Abroad Program and those changes result in the host organization/institution not offering a placement/position to the applicant.

The $250 nomination fee is NOT refunded if the applicant is offered a placement/position at a host institution/organization and subsequently does not accept the placement/position.

If the University of Alberta decides to cancel a program for health and safety reasons prior to a program's commencement refund of applicable tuition and program fees paid to the University of Alberta for the program will be considered. Administration and nomination fees paid to the University of Alberta may not be refunded.

If the University of Alberta decides to cancel a program for health and safety reasons after it has started any refund of tuition and fees will depend upon several factors including: (1) how much of the program has been completed; (2) the refund policy of the host institution which is providing the program; and (3) refund limitations due to non-recoverable amounts and/or contractual obligations for the payment of fees placed upon either the student or the University of Alberta.

If a student participating in a University of Alberta Work and Research Abroad Program chooses to withdraw from a program that has not been cancelled for any reason, the University of Alberta will review all requests from students to terminate a program early for legitimate reasons and any possibility of a refund. Students choosing to participate in a WRAPs must accept as a condition of participation that should a decision be made to cancel or end a program due to concerns over the safety and security of students, program participants may encounter additional and unexpected financial and academic situations. The University of Alberta will work closely with such students to mitigate any possible negative implications of such a decision to the best of its ability. Students should, as a general rule ensure among other things they consider carefully the purchase of travel and program interruption insurance and purchase airline tickets that can have the return date modified with limited or no penalty. The University can accept no responsibility for refunds on any moneys paid to third parties as part of the WRAPs.

XII. POINTS TO CONSIDER

Passport and Immigration Documents

You will not be able to proceed with immigration matters (i.e. student/work visas) until official acceptance from the Host University/Host Organisation is received. At that point, communication with the nearest consular representative can begin (addresses are available on-line). The immigration process varies according to the country. It is your responsibility to ensure that you have all necessary documents and visas prior to the WRAP.

Housing

The program contact can provide general information on accommodation at the Host University/ Host Organisation. Once formal acceptance has been received or where advised by the program contact, you are responsible for communicating directly with the Host University on housing and food matters. Host Universities which do not provide accommodation for students often provide assistance to you in locating accommodation. Once you submit your housing request to the Host University it is your responsibility to provide any additional information or required deposits to ensure a room is reserved.

Travel Arrangements

Travel costs and arrangements should be explored when first considering a WRAPs. You may want to determine your travel plans shortly after you apply for a program and book your flights. However, you should not pay for your ticket until a work placement has been secured.

Advance Registration from Abroad

Students may use the Beartracks on-line registration system to register in courses for the term following completion of their WRAPs program. You should discuss your return to the University of Alberta and to your faculty with a faculty program advisor prior to departure.

Work and Research Abroad Address

You are strongly encouraged to notify your program contact of your mailing address and work contact information for the duration of your WRAPs period in case there is a need to communicate any relevant information or details to you while you are on your WRAPs.

Students with Disabilities and Special Needs

The Education Abroad Program encourages all students, including students with disabilities, to consider incorporating a study abroad experience into their academic program. While students with disabilities may need to consider some special issues that arise as a consequence of studying and living in another country beyond those that they may normally deal with here in Canada – the value of undertaking the extra work necessary to participate in an international experience can be well worth the time and energy. For further information on participating in a study abroad program, please consult the Education Abroad Program’s Policy for “Students with Disabilities and Special Needs” on Section XII of this document.

International Off-Campus Work Permit

International students participating in a WRAPs and who have an Off-campus Work Permit may be required to return their Work Permit for the duration of time that they are abroad depending on their registration status. In order to determine if this or other policies apply to your circumstances you should consult an International Student Services advisor at University of Alberta International Services Center in the Telus Center.

Citizenship vs. Nationality

Canadians who have more than one nationality through birth, descent, marriage or naturalization are advised that while in the country of their nationality they may be subject to all its laws and obligations, particularly military service. Please note that your ‘nationality’ refers to your status of belonging to a particular nation, whether by birth (your birth, your parents’ birth or possibly even grandparents in some cases) or naturalization, and is different than that of your ‘citizenship’ where citizenship is the status, rights and duties of a citizen, especially of a particular country. For example – if a Canadian born student who has Greek parents holding Canadian citizenship went to Greece to learn the language/culture, etc of the “mother country” he/she could find him or herself conscripted into the Greek army with no recourse. Why? According to Greek law, if your parents are Greek, then you are Greek, even if YOU don't officially have Greek citizenship or a Greek passport. In the eyes of the Greek government, you are a Greek national. If you are going to study abroad in a country where you know you have nationality (or may have nationality by default due to your parents and/or grandparents), please ensure you consult with the office that handles immigration matters in that country to see what laws and local customs you may be subject to.

Final Thoughts

While there are many people willing to assist you, you are ultimately responsible for your decisions concerning your work or research placement. Proper steps should be followed and you should ensure your concerns are satisfied before leaving on a WRAPs.

XIII. EDUCATION ABROAD POLICY FOR STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES AND SPECIAL NEEDS

The Education Abroad Program (EAP) encourages all students to consider incorporating a study an/or work abroad experience into their academic program. While students with disabilities may need to consider some special issues that arise as a consequence of studying/working and living in another country beyond those they may normally deal with here in Canada – the value of undertaking the extra work necessary to participate in an international experience can be well worth the time and energy. This policy has been prepared to provide information, encouragement, and guidance to students with disabilities interested in participating in a U of A study/work abroad program.

E. Pre-selection steps

1. When considering participation in an international study/work abroad program, the first step is to investigate your options and to get some general information surrounding how to choose a program. In this regard, you must first review the Education Abroad Program’s Information on our web pages at www.goabroad.ualberta.ca.

2. Now you are ready to identify the program(s) that are of most interest to you and best meet your needs. While students with disabilities are encouraged to examine all our study and work abroad possibilities for which they have interest, it is important to recognize at this point that not all of our partner universities abroad will be able to offer reasonable accommodations for students with some types of disabilities.

Reasonable accommodations are adjustments made to an academic or work environment that allow an individual with a disability to function successfully in the environment. Examples include ramps and lifts for persons with mobility disabilities and sign interpreters for hearing impaired individuals. Students must recognize that reasonable accommodations are not required to be provided where they would result in undue hardship. For a service provider or employer, undue hardship may result from an accommodation request which jeopardizes the health, safety, and financial viability of the provider. An example is the inability to provide a full-time personal aide for someone due to financial restrictions.

Some students may not be aware that they may need reasonable accommodations at the study abroad site, since they may not have needed to access Accessibility Resources at the U of A. We ask you to consider that, while you may not require accommodations at the U of A, accommodations may be needed at the study abroad site due to cultural and environmental differences. For example, Denmark is considered forward thinking in making people with disabilities an integral part of society, though at the same time they possess laws that prohibit the altering of buildings in order to preserve their heritage. A person with mobility challenges may find the environment difficult to access compared to what they have become accustomed to at the U of A.

It is also important to realize that foreign government and institutional laws and cultures related to providing services to students with disabilities differ markedly between countries and this may be a part of your considerations in selecting a suitable venue. There are a host of other differences you may not be aware of including the fact that American Sign Language will not be viable as a means of communication in a number of other English speaking countries and keyboarding is different in different countries – something to know if you use ttypes, have a sight disability, and are a touch typist. There are numerous other differences.

The delivery of disability services in other countries can be considerably different than here in Canada and at the U of A. There are resources and experts to assist you in identifying programs that can meet your interests and needs. The Accessibility Resources disability advisors at the U of A may have some insight into how to overcome barriers that you may have not anticipated because of your experience at the U of A. There are also some resources we recommend that all students with disabilities consult before proceeding in attempting to identify suitable programs. They include “Rights and Responsibilities: A Guide to National and International Disability Related Laws for International Exchange Organizations and Participants”, “A Practice of Yes: Working with Overseas Partners to Include Students with Disabilities”, and “Building Bridges: A Manual on Including People with Disabilities in International Exchange Programs”. All of these publications are online at: www.miusa.org/.

3. Once you have completed the steps above and have done some investigation to identify potential programs you can then start an online application. Some programs are open to all students while others may only be open to students in certain faculties. Should you require special accommodations in order to meet with the Program Contact and discuss your study abroad possibilities, please contact the Education Abroad Office in order that we may confirm the arrangements required before your meeting.

While a student's disability will form no part of the selection process in determining eligibility to participate in a study abroad program, the program administrator may suggest the most viable programs to meet your interests and needs. Students are also encouraged to discuss their interest in participating in a study abroad program with staff in the Office for Accessibility Resources. Accessibility Resources will be especially helpful in discussions on everything from funding requirements and guidelines for going abroad to differences in technology and service delivery in other jurisdictions. The secret for having a successful study abroad experience is the same for all students – preparation, preparation, and preparation! While it is not mandatory prior to being selected to participate in a study abroad program for students with disabilities to consult Accessibility Resources, it is strongly advised.

F. Post-selection steps

1. Once you have received a formal nomination from the Program Contact at the U of A notifying you that you have been selected to participate in a study abroad program, you must consider whether you will need special accommodation from the Host Institution. For students with disabilities where there is an obvious or potential need for some form of accommodation to be made by the Host Institution, you are then required to meet with both your Accessibility Resources and advisor to determine what, if any, accommodations and or special supports may need to be articulated and confirmed with the Host Institution. In consultation with the student, Accessibility Resources staff will recommend the supports required to fulfill academic responsibilities.

Due to the importance of ensuring that appropriate accommodations are in place at the Host Institution, working with Accessibility Resources is mandatory for all students with disabilities who have been nominated to participate in a study abroad program and who will require accommodation from the Host Institution. Accessibility Resources is designated by the University's General Faculties Council Policy as the body which is primarily responsible for providing disability services for staff and students at the University of Alberta.

2. As a general practice, an office similar to Accessibility Resources at your Host Institution will seek information on your disability and requirements for accommodation so that it can assess the Host Institution's ability to provide required accommodations. Additionally, Accessibility Resources and the disability office at the Host Institution may need, on your behalf, to complete various forms and paperwork related to things such as applying for funding to cover the cost of the services and products recommended etc. The Accessibility Resources staff will help guide you through the process of applying for funding, which, in some cases, requires additional appointments off campus with government representatives. Funding is available for a great majority of support services and equipment provided by the Accessibility Resources office, and to cover other specific disability-related costs. You will also want to discuss with Accessibility Resources if you can use any funding that you may already receive for studying at the U of A with you when you go abroad. If you cannot take your funding with you, you will need to start planning your new budget.
3. Reasonable accommodations will be recommended by Accessibility Resources in consultation with the student, the Education Abroad Program office, and the study abroad site. Accommodations which would require a fundamental alteration of the program, would present an undue hardship, or are not seen as acceptable by the Host Institution may not be provided. Canadian and Alberta legislation related to issues such as duty to accommodate are not binding upon foreign universities and decisions on accommodations are therefore made on a case-by-case, country-by-country, and institution-by-institution basis.

If the study abroad site is reluctant to provide the requested accommodations, then another study abroad site will have to be selected. Students need to recognize that even though all of our WRAPS are open to you, the WRAP institution may find accommodating a student with a disability an undue hardship. Thus it is important for the student to have done some research into an institution's level of accessibility and for the student to have an alternative choice for study abroad as noted earlier in this document. We recommend that you have 1 or 2 more desired choices as alternatives in case your first choice cannot support the needed accommodations.

4. Neither the U of A nor the study abroad site are obliged to provide accommodations to students who do not provide the required medical certification or who do not make timely requests for accommodations. Should a student only disclose disability accommodation needs once abroad, then Accessibility Resources, the Education Abroad Program office and the study abroad site will determine if the student still qualifies to participate and what accommodations, if any, can be provided. It is therefore required that students disclose information about their disability-related needs upon being nominated for a program and well in advance of their planned departure to ensure that any necessary accommodation requests can be considered. If you wait until the last minute to request accommodations then it may not be possible to make appropriate arrangements.
5. Students are not obligated to disclose any information pertaining to their disability as part of the application process. If a student brings disability-related personal property to the Host Institution then the student is responsible ensuring adequate personal effects insurance. Neither the U of A nor the Host Institution can be held accountable for the safety and security of the student's own disability-related personal property.

XIV. U of A ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS POLICY

The University has approved an Electronic Communications Policy for Students and Applicants. See full policy: <http://www.registrarsoffice.ualberta.ca/About/U-of-A-Electronic-Communications-Policy.aspx>

When appropriate, the University will send you important information through e-mail. As a result, you will receive this information in a timely way and can follow up promptly.

Key Points Regarding Electronic Communications

Check your e-mail at least once a week

Please login to the Education Abroad Online Pre-Departure course at least once a day

- All students and applicants are assigned a University of Alberta Campus Computing ID (CCID) with e-mail privileges. The 'CCID@ualberta.ca' e-mail address originally assigned by the University is the e-mail address to which communications will be sent.
- See the Academic Information and Communication Technologies (AICT) website for detailed information on CCIDs, conditions of use, and related privileges: www.ualberta.ca/AICT/
- You must advise AICT immediately of any problems encountered with University e-mail accounts by contacting the Help Desk at www.ualberta.ca/HELP or calling 780-492-9400
- We recommend that you do not forward your University directed e-mail to other non-University e-mail addresses such as those provided by Hotmail, Yahoo, Shaw, Telus, etc. as you could miss important communications that may affect your University career

Failure to receive or read University communications sent to the University e-mail address in a timely manner does not absolve students and applicants from knowing, responding to, or complying with the content of that communication.
